SAVE YOURSELF TROUBLE later on by dealing with digestive derangements immediately they arise. However slight they may appear to be, the time to attend to them is now. Disorders of the digestive system have a tendency to develop into settled conditions of dyspepsia which may prove anything but easy to relieve and cure. Once allow dyspepsia to obtain a firm hold and life will be rendered a misery indeed. As a remedy for arresting the progress of digestive trouble, Beecham's Pills have been found to be of the greatest service. There are many thousands of people all over the world who keep themselves in robust health BY TAKING Beecham's Pills. They have proved for themselves the remarkable corrective, curative and restorative powers of this valuable medicine. They know from experience that Beecham's Pills strengthen the stomach, restore the appetite, render the liver active, relieve constipation and purify the blood. Prudent people take Beecham's Pills at the first sign of indisposition with the happy result that they rarely suffer from ailments of any sort and can rely upon being constantly fit and well. Everyone threatened with digestive disorders should seek the immediate assistance of BEECHAM'S PILLS. Sold everywhere in boxes, prices 1/1½ (56 pills) and 2/9 (168 pills).

MANCHESTER MEETING—YESTERDAY.

CHARLEBELLE WINS LANCASHIRE NURSERY HANDICAP.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

MANCHESTER, FRIDAY NIGHT.

The final stage in an eventful flat racing season will be reached to-morrow, and so far as Manchester is concerned, it will end in interesting fashion, as large fields will contest most of the events. The conditions for the penultimate stage were almost ideal, for, after rain had threatened, the sun broke through, and an enjoyable and exciting afternoon's racing was the result. The chief item of interest was the Lancashire Nursery, which attracted a big field. Backers, however, anticipated the result with surprising accuracy when declaring for the Liverpool winner, March Along, and the Irish-bred Charlebelle. The Doncaster winner, Adorna, held a nice place on the rails for some way, but was soon out of it, and Charlebelle, as the distance was neared, had the measure of her field, and though challenged stoutly enough by March Along, sustained her effort to the end, and won an exhilarating tussle by a head from the favourite. The winner is by Charles O'Malley out of Bushey Belle, one of the smartest sprinters in Ireland in her time. Details:—

MANCHESTER, FRIDAY NIGHT.

Another excellent afternoon's racing was evolved from the Manchester programme, and heavy fields are promised until the last race is reached. The field for the November Handicap is likely to comprise the whole of the seventeen horses left in, and is indicated in the appended list of

PROBABLE STARTERS AND JOCKEYS.

GRAND FLEET (Lord Glanely), 5, 9-2......A. Smith.
PLANET (Mr. G. Barclay), 5, 8-12......H. Robbins.
KING JOHN (Capt. Loder), 4, 8-6......E. Wheatley.
GAY LORD (Mr. J. White), 3, 8-5......A. Whalley.

GOTHA (Mr. D. J. Jardine), 4, 6-5....C. Ringstead.
WILLIAM ALLENBY (Mr. De Mestre), 3, 7-0

The wagering to-day upon the issue was only of a desultory nature, but one of the best backed horses so far is Golden Fleece. The confidence of the connections of the stable that this horse or his stable companion, Wildfellow, will win is unmistakable. One of the wagers secured by the owner of Golden Fleece is sixteen "monkeys" to win and 1,600 to 400 for a place. I include Grand Fleet, Planet, Alasnam, and Chat Tor in a little lot likely to supply the winner, and may win. Alasnam should gain a place. For the minor races my fancies are:—Farewell Handicap—Ugly Duckling or Marl. Beresford Stakes—Rocksavage. Saturday Welter—Wee Men. Worsley Nursery—Hogg's selected. Final Plate—Manilardo.

PLANET or CHAT TOR

At Lingfield the following may win:—Four Elms Nursery—Riches. Back End Handicap—Magic Prince. Burstow Handicap—Porton. Final Handicap—Black Lamb. Country Plate—Milo. Southern Plate—Mapledurham.

The Sextoblade is practically Six Razors at the price of ONE

Six good shaving blades go with every Sextoblade outfit. Some of our customers have had only one in constant daily use for over twelve months. That is wonderful testimony to the economy of the Sextoblade.

In addition, the Sextoblade shaves even the heaviest and most stubborn growth with ease—always clean and keen—equal to a head barber's best effort. It is as simple and safe to work as it is efficient in service.

Economy plus efficiency all the time make the Sextoblade a par-excellence self-shaver.

Three styles:—
As above 12/- Style B 16/6 Style D 23/-

ANOTHER TESTIMONIAL.
10th October, 1919.
Gentlemen,
You will oblige me by posting one of your Sextoblade razors, style B, to the address attached, debiting same to my account.
It may surprise you to know that the blade I am now using has shaved me daily for over twelve months. It is seldom one finds every claim made by the vendors justified, but your Sextoblade is even better than you advertise it to be. In my opinion, it is far ahead of any other make of razor.

We are Sole Agents in Ireland for the Sextoblade, and will post any of the above outfits to readers of the "Irish Times" on receipt of P.O. for the amount and 3d. for postage. Full instructions are enclosed with each outfit. Send your order to-day.

ALLEGED INSURANCE FRAUDS.

THREE BROTHERS FOUND GUILTY.

The trial of the three brothers, James, Henry, and Frank Reynolds, on charges of conspiring to defraud the Irish Mutual Assurance Collecting Society, of which they were officers, was resumed at the Green street Courthouse, Dublin, yesterday, before the Right Hon. the Recorder.

Mr. W. Carrigan, K.C. (instructed by the Chief Crown Solicitor) prosecuted.

James Reynolds, one of the accused, who had conducted the defence, resumed his address to the jury, opened on the previous evening. He commented on what he described as the uncorroborated evidence of Miss Davis, Chief Clerk in the office, and asked the jury to hold that the frauds with which they were charged were a continuation of the series of frauds which had been committed in the office prior to his brothers and himself entering the service of the Society.

The Recorder, in summing up, said that it was no answer to the charges for the defendants to say that there were other people in the office in the swim. Miss Davis, he said, could not be guilty of conspiracy by herself. There must be two in a conspiracy, and even if she were guilty, which no one but Reynolds suggested, that would not relieve him.

The jury, after two hours' absence, found a verdict of "Guilty," recommending the prisoners, especially the two younger, to mercy.

The Foreman said that the jury desired to say that there had been gross mismanagement in the whole conduct of the Society.

The Recorder, agreeing, said that he would take that into consideration. He was sorry for the Secretary, who was a man of ability. He did not think that there was any man at the Bar who could have defended the case with more ability.

A juror said that they all agreed.

Mr. Carrigan said that the defalcations at the very minimum for the year 1918 amounted to £600, and he would like his lordship to ask James Reynolds what were his intentions.

The prisoners were put back till Monday, in order to see whether they could make any arrangement with reference to indemnifying the Society.

COMING EVENTS.

THE BOYS' BRIGADE—14th Dublin Company (St. George's).—The annual Parade Service will be held in St. Augustine's Church to-morrow evening at 7 o'clock. The brass band will accompany the hymns, and the special preacher will be the Rev. Harold G. Forde, M.A., Chaplain, 21st Co.

SOCIETY FOR THE PROPAGATION OF THE GOSPEL.—There will be a special meeting in the Gregg Hall on Monday, December 1st, at 3.30 p.m. Bishop Montgomery and others will speak on behalf of the Thankoffering Fund. The critical condition of missionary finance demands the utmost consideration of every Churchman at this time.

DUBLIN WHITE CROSS ASSOCIATION.—The annual public meeting of the Dublin White Cross Association is announced to be held in the Gregg Memorial Hall, 8 Dawson street, on next Tuesday, 25th inst., at 8 p.m. The speakers will include Sir William Fry, D.L. (Chairman); the Archbishop of Dublin, and Major C. C. de Burgh Daly, R.A.M.C.

IRISH LAND FOR SAILORS AND SOLDIERS.

PROBABLE EXPENDITURE.

A White Paper issued yesterday states that the Irish Land (Provisions for Sailors and Soldiers) Bill contemplates the provision of holdings for ex-service men by the Land Commission under the Irish Land Purchase Acts, and the provision of cottages, with small plots, by the Local Government Board under the Labourers (Ireland) Acts.

The transactions of the Land Commission will involve the acquisition of land so far as suitable land already acquired or in process of acquisition under the Land Purchase Acts is not available, the management and letting of the land pending the sale, the conversion of the land into holdings, with suitable equipment, and the re-sale of such holdings to ex-service men.

It is proposed by the bill that the moneys required for the purpose of these transactions should be provided in the same way as the money required for the purchase and re-settlement of congested estates under the Land Purchase Acts—that is to say, that the purchase money should be provided out of the Land Purchase Fund, and any deficiency on re-sales should be paid out of money provided by Parliament; that the expenses of improvement and of management pending re-sale should be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament, and that any profits on such management should be repaid to the Exchequer.

The amount of the total expenditure likely to be incurred in these transactions will depend upon the amount of suitable land available, the price at which the land can be acquired, the number of ex-service men applying and qualified for the purchase of holdings, the cost of equipping the lands as holdings with houses, roads, etc., and the prices on re-sales. Having regard to the uncertainty of all these factors, it is impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy the gross expenditure or the deficiency likely to arise on the transactions, but it is anticipated that, on the whole, there may be an average deficiency of about £375 per holding.

It is proposed that the expenses incurred by the Local Government Board in providing cottages and plots shall be defrayed out of money provided by Parliament, and that the receipts of the Board shall be paid into the Exchequer. For the reasons already stated, it is not possible to give an accurate estimate of the gross expenditure or deficiency likely to be incurred in these transactions, but it is anticipated that the average capital cost per cottage and plot will amount approximately to £600, and that a considerable portion of this sum may be recouped on the ultimate disposal of the cottage when no longer required for an ex-service man.

Cottages and plots will be let to ex-service men at rents corresponding to those paid by agricultural labourers for similar cottages and plots under the Labourers Acts, and it is anticipated that the average annual deficiency per cottage and plot will amount to some £33 10s.

The bill also empowers the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland to promote co-operation in connection with holdings and cottages provided under the bill, and proposes that the expenses incurred by the Department shall be defrayed out of money provided by Parliament to such extent as may be sanctioned by the Treasury. It is estimated that the expenditure under this head will not amount to more than £1,500 for the first year.

PLATFORM AND STAGE.

The American comedy, "The Naughty Wife," which has had a successful run of eighteen months in London, comes from the Playhouse Theatre next week to the Gaiety Theatre, where it will be produced for the first time in Dublin. The title rôle will be filled by Miss Margaret Swallow, whose only previous appearance before a Dublin audience was when she played in "The Arcadians" at the age of 16. Miss Hilda Stewart and Mr. Patrick Quill have also leading parts.

At the head of a bright programme for the Theatre Royal Hippodrome next week appears the name of Miss Ada Reeve, the world-famous "star." Lois Barker and Percy Tarling, who are known as the grumblers, are to be heard in humour and music written and composed by themselves, and a "turn" is also promised by 'Erbert, the emergency comedian. Jessie Broughton and Denis Creedon are to provide a musical entertainment, and the Bale Family a novel cycle act, while on the bill are also Alf Thomas, "the peal of frivolity," and Harry French, the double-voiced vocalist.

On the bill for the Empire Theatre next week pride of place is given to Syd. Walker, the popular comedian, in his latest creation. Supporting Mr. Walker are the famous Brontë Four, who, it will be remembered, scored a great success with the King's Jesters' Company on their recent visit. Billie and Dollie, who pay their first visit to the Empire, will be seen in character song studies. Mr. Fred Harford and Grace O'Malley will appear in a sketch entitled "Who Did," and Brame and Partner and Lottie Lennox are also on the programme.

Under the direction of Mr. Ira Allen a domestic drama, entitled "A Mother's Love," by the authors and part authors of "The Prodigal Parson," "Is He a Christian?" etc., will be presented by Mr. Joe Howard in the Queen's Theatre next week. An all-Dublin company includes:—Mr. Thomas Moran, Mr. Charles Doyle, Mr. Leo Strong, Mr. Peter McCormac, Mr. H. J. Condron, Mr. C. O'Driscoll, Mr. Ira Allen, Miss May Murnane, Miss Florrie Amery, Miss Molly Douglas, and Miss May Fitzpatrick.

At the Abbey Theatre next week a new one-act comedy entitled "The Enchanted Trousers" will be produced. It will be followed by a revival of Mr. T. C. Murray's "Birthright."

At the Tivoli Theatre next week Horace Wheatley, "The Grand Old Man," who is always a favourite in Dublin, will introduce, by special request, "Mac, my old pal, Mac." The programme also includes numbers by Fred Luke, vocal and whistling entertainer; Gwen and Jay Highley, comedy artists; Granby and Grant, comedians and dancers; Knoto and Lil, in their comedy act, "Pussy at Home"; Sivado and Lady, gymnasts and acrobats; Antonio, Italian street singer, and Rose and Budd, in song and chatter.

On Monday, December 1st, Mr. Ralph Brereton-Barry, who has been playing with Robert Loraine during the entire run of "Cyrano de Bergerac," will produce for one night only at the Abbey Theatre Bernard Shaw's "Candida." Miss Elizabeth Young will play Candida, Mr. F. J. McCormick James Morell, and Mr. Ralph Brereton-Barry Marchbanks. Miss Young and Mr. Brereton-Barry have played their respective parts with great success under Mr. Keogh's management.

The Rathmines and Rathgar Musical Society are rehearsing "Merrie England," which they are to produce in the Gaiety Theatre on December 1, in aid of the Funds of Holles Street Hospital. The work abounds in tuneful numbers, and the book is witty and fanciful. The opportunity for brilliant staging and dressing is also afforded.

At Miss Dina Copeman's pianoforte recital next Wednesday evening, in the Aberdeen Hall, Gresham Hotel, the programme will include the Beethoven Sonata in F minor (Appassionata), as well as works by Chopin, Liszt, Esposito, and Debussy, and their rendering by this gifted young pianist will be of much interest. Mr. Joseph O'Reilly will sing a number of songs. The accompanist will be Miss Madeline Moore.

Mr. Gervase Elwes, the distinguished English tenor, is giving two song recitals at the Aberdeen Hall, Gresham Hotel, Dublin, on Wednesday afternoon, 3rd December, at 4.30, and Thursday evening, 4th December, at 8.15. Mr. Gervase Elwes is widely known as the most distinguished exponent of the title part in Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius." His programmes include two extracts from this great work, in performances of which he has sung over one hundred times. Groups of old and modern French songs and several beautiful modern English songs complete interesting programmes.

Mr. Frederick Dawson will give a pianoforte recital in the Theatre of the Royal Dublin Society, Kildare street, at 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon, when the following programme will be performed:—Fugue, A minor (Alla Toccata) (Bach); Sonata, E major, Op. 109 (Beethoven); Papillions, Op. 2 (Schumann); Nocturne (John Field); Nocturne, F sharp, Op. 15, No. 2 (Chopin); Nocturne, C sharp minor, Op. 27, No. 1 (Chopin); Scherzo, C sharp minor, Op. 39 (Chopin); La Fille aux Cheveaux de Lin (Debussy); Ministrels (Debussy); Jardins sous la pluie (Debussy); Pavane (pour une infante defunte (Ravel); Ondine (Ravel); Paradise birds (Cyril Scott); Passacaglia (Cyril Scott); Le Trille (Thalberg); Erlking (Schubert, Liszt); Etude en forme de valse (Saint-Saëns).

GOLFING UNION OF IRELAND.

ANNUAL MEETING. NEXT YEAR'S CHAMPIONSHIP FIXTURES. MICHAEL MORAN MEMORIAL.

The annual meeting of the Golfing Union of Ireland was held on Thursday in the Shelbourne Hotel. Delegates representing the four provincial branches were present. The Hon. Secretary's report stated that the whole work of the Union had been resumed, after the five years' suspension owing to the war, and that this had been achieved without effort. The three championships and the senior and junior cups and the Barton Shield competitions had all been carried through with a success that rivalled pre-war days. The Hon. Treasurer's statement was satisfactory.

The fixtures for 1920 were made as follow:—The Open Amateur Championship, to be held at Portmarnock on 6th September and following days; the Irish Close Championship, to be held at Newcastle on a date in May or June, to suit the Royal County Down Club; the Irish Professional Championship, to be held at Newcastle in connection with the Amateur Championship.

It was agreed to take up the scheme for the Irish Professional Golfers' Association and Benevolent Fund, which was adopted before the war, and to ask the clubs to combine in its support.

It was decided to establish a Michael Moran Memorial in the form of a first prize of £20 to the winner of the Irish Professional Championship. The prize money to be given in future to the professional championship was more than doubled.

The entrance fees for the two amateur championships were increased to a guinea each, and it was decided to abolish the stroke competition in connection with the Open Meeting.

The rules for the Barton Shield Competition were altered. In future it will be played in the form of an inter-club tournament in each province.

The committee on the Year Book were instructed to report to a special meeting of the Union, to be held before the end of February, changes in the constitution necessary for the more convenient working of the Union.

THE SOUTH OF IRELAND SCHOOL OF MOTORING.

Messrs. O'Gorman Bros., Ltd., Clonmel, beg to announce to their many friends and customers the early re-opening of the above school, which, as a result of the restrictions introduced by the war, they were reluctantly compelled to suspend. The school will again be conducted by Mr. B. M. Body, a London expert, who, during the period of the war, instructed over 1,500 officers and men of the Royal Air Force in the management and intricacies of the aeroplane engine. The company will endeavour to pursue the most up-to-date methods of training in the driving, mechanism, and general management of cars, and so assist in meeting the great demand for proficiency in this direction.—(Advt.)

MARKET REPORTS.

GRAIN.—DUBLIN CORN EXCHANGE, Friday.—Our bi-weekly Corn Exchange continues to be thinly patronised by the trade, especially at the buying end, and the volume of business remains of very moderate amount, being little less than in values. However, the general position with regard to prices shows a decidedly firmer undertone in oats, which are inclined perhaps 3d. per barrel higher, but this is entirely due to the agitating disposition of country people, who express dissatisfaction with recent returns. In several cases of the moment 27/6 and 28/- per barrel has been considered unacceptable in certain country quarters. Altogether, black oats may be quoted from 27/6 to 28/6 and 29/- per barrel; whites, 29/6 to 30/6 or 31/-, although there are holders who refused to part with certain parcels under 32/- and 32/6. Barley has a rising tendency, more or less from a country push also, but prices may still be reckoned around 48/- to 52/- per barrel for best malting qualities, although more is said to have been realised for pet samples. Irish wheat continues steady, inside control, at from, say, 40/- to 42/3, according to character, and rye nominally inside 42/6 to 45/- and 46/- per barrel. With regard to foreign produce, nothing is featuring through the medium of our market, business arrangements being inside control.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES.—BALTIC, Friday. WHEAT—No allocations made. Maize firm. Argentine April-May quoted 65/-. BARLEY firmer. No. 4 Canada Western October-November and December-January 75/-. OATS firmer. Argentine 42lbs. January-February quoted 52/9, whites clipped American 36 lbs. January-February 55/6 per 320 lbs.

MARK LANE, Friday.—English wheat steady. Fair demand. Whites delivered up to 72/- to 78/-, reds ditto. Foreign grades sparingly offered. No. 1 Northern Manitoba, 63/6 ex ship; No. 2, 62/6 ex ship; No. 3, 61/6 ex ship; Australian, spot, 63/-; No. 2 red winter 61/6 ex ship; Argentine, 61/- landed. FLOUR generally quiet. Canadian, 46/3 ex store; Minneapolis ditto Iron Duke ditto; Australian, 46/3 ex store; English G.R. 44/3 ex mill. BARLEY maintained. Native malting, 110/- to 130/-; Californian, 112/- to 115/- ex store; Canadian, 76/- to 81/6 ex store. OATS quiet. LIVERPOOL, Friday.—C.i.f. parcels of WHEAT were fairly active, and American mixed MAIZE January-February held at 81/6, with River Plate April-May 65/- per qr. sellers. FLOUR moved moderately on the Government terms. BEANS firm and dearer all round. PEAS firm, and improved held for higher prices. OATMEAL steady, with rather more inquiry. MILL OFFALS—Demand in excess of supply. In wheat parcels afloat No. 1 Manitoba at 60/-, sold in conjunction with No. 5 smutty red winter at 60/-, No. 3 red winter at 56/6, and to Manchester No. 1 red winter at 59/-, No. 2 58/-, and No. 3 at 54/6 per qr. PROVISIONS.—DUBLIN POTATO, Friday.—City trade for potatoes remains very slack, and supplies enough to well cover business practicable, but the dearer pretensions of North of Ireland dealers is neutralising the response at this end, and the position with regard to offers from that direction now presents some difficulty in handling them here at a satisfactory margin of profit. Prices remain at from 7/- to 8/- per cwt. for suitable quality tubers.

LONDON, Friday.—BUTTER Market—The first distribution under the new scheme on the basis of 1½ oz. per head took place this week. Control prices. CHEESE—The last distribution of imported is proceeding and quality generally satisfactory. Control prices. BACON—Trade very slow and restricted offerings of suitable quality, inferior sorts being difficult of sale, while liberal stocks remain on hand. Irish, 190/6 delivered. Market also liberally stocked with imported fruits, onions, etc. Apples continue a slow sale; average, say, 3/- to 4/- per half bushel; Irish barrels, 15/- to 25/- and 28/-; special dessert apples, 5/- to 9/- per half-bushel; pears, selected, 4/- to 6/- per dozen; Comice 11/- to 12/- per clip; Dutch pears, 12/- to 18/- per barrel; black grapes, 2/- to 2/6 and 3/- per lb.; Dutch, 1/- to 1/3; Almeria, 28/- to 35/- and 40/- per barrel; Nova Scotia apples, 42/6 to 65/- per barrel; Californian Newton pippins, 27/- per box; English tomatoes, 12/- to 13/- per 12lb. strike; Canary, 5/- to 8/- per box; Spanish onions, 24/- to 32/- per case, according to count; cauliflowers, 2/6 to 3/6, 4/3, and 4/6 per dozen; Irish tomatoes, 10d. to 1/2 per lb; celery, 3/- to 6/- and 6/6 per bunch; parsnips, 6/- to 7/- and 8/- per cwt.; Swede turnips a glut and irregular, 2/- to 2/3 and 2/8 per cwt.; York cabbage, 30/- to 50/-, 60/-, and 75/- per load; Savoys, 30/- to 58/- and 65/- per load; carrots, 1/8 to 2/- per dozen bunches; leeks, 4d. to 6d per bunch; red cabbage, 2/- to 2/6 per dozen; white turnips, 9d. to 1/6 per bundle; sprouts, 2/7 to 3/9 per float, and special, 4/- to 5/-; parsley, 6d. to 1/- and 1/3 per lot; spinach, 1/- to 1/5 per float; thyme, 6d. to 1/- per bunch.

HALSTON STREET POULTRY AND GAME, Friday.—Offerings throughout this morning were on the short side, and everything sold up quickly and satisfactorily at current rates. Fat dead geese and heavy turkeys are now evidently being held back to some extent for Christmas markets, but store geese still feature in fair quantity. Hens are rating about 3/- to 6/- per dozen cheaper. Chickens generally unaltered. Turkeys a good sale. Ducks still selling well, although, of course, in off season. Rabbits, owing to recent bad weather, are not in good supply—in fact, for some time past arrivals have proved wholly inadequate for Dublin requirements. Game and wild fowl also much below wants. The latter, too, are mostly coming forward in starved and unsuitable condition, after spell of frost and wintry weather, which lends much irregularity to values—some consignments indeed can scarcely be quoted for. Weather generally favourable to trade for poultry. Prime cock turkeys, 22/- to 35/-; light, etc., 15/- to 20/-; prime hen ditto, 16/- to 20/-; others, 10/- to 15/-; prime fat geese, 11/- to 13/- and 15/- each; stores 8/- to 10/-; prime fat ducks, 5/- to 6/- and 7/- each; mediums, 4/- to 4/6; stores, 2/- to 3/6; old ducks, 1/6 to 2/6, and extras, 5/- each; house-fed chickens, 6/- to 7/6; best ordinary, 4/- to 5/-; others, 2/6 to 3/3; hens, ordinary, 4/- to 5/6; extra heavy, 8/6; others, 2/6 to 3/6 each; hares, 4/- to 5/-; pheasants, cocks, 5/6; hens, 5/-; grouse, 4/3; old, 2/6; partridge, 3/3; old, 1/6; wild, 3/6 to 4/-; woodcock, 2/6 to 3/6; grey plover, 1/- to 1/3; green, 6d. to 8d.; snipe, 9d. to 1/3; curlew, 1/- to 1/3; young pigeons, 9d.; old, 6d.; quests, 1/- to 1/3; best rabbits, 1/9 to 2/-; others, 1/6 to 1/8 each.

BUTTER AND EGGS.—LITTLE GREEN, Friday.—There is little change in the butter situation over the week, but offerings of creams are more or less nominal, and, although factory produce is generally unpopular, still the trade must run on it in the absence of anything else, and will be obliged to do so until the 8th December prox., which is the date arranged for the commencement of releases of creams from cold storage. Farmers' butter, too, is scarce. For the creams offering prices are firm at 2/8½; whilst there are three grades of factories to be dealt with, the best of which make 2/8 to 2/8½ per lb. Farmers' butter runs at from 2/5½ to 2/7, and superfine qualities, 2/7½. There is a great paucity in supplies of eggs at present, as wholesalers here are disposed to drop this end of their business altogether owing to the impossible attitude of country dealers with regard to price, and the mixed and unsatisfactory character of their consignments. Some Canadian eggs have again been handled locally; they have given a fair margin of profit and quite as good satisfaction to shopkeepers as the average Irish arrivals, for which 10/- per 120 more money is sought, with no consideration to factors for breakages and percentage of "off" qualities. Wholesale control price of Irish eggs remains at 50/- per 120 for cases, and 50/9 for selected lots.

CORK BUTTER, Friday.—Firsts, 286/-; fresh butter, 280/- per cwt.

Pimento 5½d. per lb. TAPIOCA neglected and nominal. Sago flour Jan.-March 29/-. Farina spot 39/6 per cwt. RICE—Siam crop prospects very unsatisfactory, steady demand. JUTE—The market has again developed a very dull tone and prices show a weaker tendency, particularly for qualities from lightning downwards, as these are not wanted at the moment, as the crop is showing an excess of common sorts. Native first marks assortment actuals Nov.-Dec. quoted £60 to £61 group with substitution ditto £57 Daisee No. 2 Nov.-Dec. sellers £50, lightning and Mango group assortment Nov.-Dec sellers £47, heart marks assortment £42 per ton. Egyptian—Large business done at unchanged rates. November 23.28d., January 22.29d., March 21.19d., April 20.81d., May 20.41d., June 20.03d. Market closes steady.

HAY AND STRAW.—SMITHFIELD, Friday.—Hay this morning was marketed in increased quantity. Buyers, too, were in better attendance, and evidently in greater want of fodder, and supplies, consequently, were more readily cleared at an easy repetition of previous values. Best strong classes of hay averaged 14/9 to 15/6 per cwt., and prime first crop County Dublin sorts from shed up to 16/-; fair sorts of horse hay, 14/- to 14/6; strong old meadow qualities, 12/6 to 13/6, and fair, 11/- to 12/3 per cwt.; other sorts, 8/6 to 10/9; clover hay, 8/6 to 10/6. Wheaten straw was on the scarce side, and realised 4/8 to 5/- per cwt. freely; barley straw, 4/- to 4/6; oaten straw rather plentiful, and eased in value from last day: average loads drew 5/- to 6/- per cwt.; some nicer sorts, 6/3, and special feed qualities, 6/6, where extra nice and dry.

TRADE REPORT.—MANCHESTER, Friday.—Cloth demand continues on a large scale, but the turnover is confined within narrower compass owing to producers' reluctance to commit themselves any further. Both India and China are persistent in pressing their requirements. Prices are improving, and altogether a substantial volume of trade gets done. Inquiry for smaller outlets is healthy, and progress only hindered by delivery troubles. Spinners maintain a very strong attitude, and movements on this side are rather slow.

ARMSTRONG AND SMITH'S REPORT, 25 Prussia street, Dublin, November 20th.—Beasts, 5,258—increase, 710; sheep, 7,439—increase, 1,055. A slightly better demand for cattle, with no quotable change in prices. All lots of sheep suitable for home consumption made late rates. Beef (best), 74/- to 78/- per cwt.; secondary and cows, 60/- to 70/- per cwt.; mutton, 1/2 to 1/5 per lb.—(Advt.)

LONDON METALS MARKET.

COPPER advanced 30/- for cash and 30/- to 35/- per ton forward, but only a comparatively small business transpired. Standard cash £98 10/- to £98 15/-, three months £99 15/- to £100, settlement price £98 10/-. Sales 400 tons, three months at £99 5/- to £99 15/, electros £111 to £115, B.S. £112 to £113, S.S. £150. APPEALS.

THE AASLEAGH HOME
Carries on its work for the Orphan and Destitute in the West as before.
Unfortunately in these hard times for the little ones many necessities were recently lacking, and the Home, within and without needed repairs.
BOYS' NIGHT AND DAY CLOTHING ARE STILL URGENTLY NEEDED. Will those whose children are in comfortable homes, safeguarded by parental love, take thought for the orphan and the destitute who lack these?
To help "the lone and fatherless" is truly "Christlike." "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these. . . ye have done it unto Me."—Matt. 25, 40.
Through change of management individual appeal to the majority of kind friends who formerly helped is impossible.
Contributions gratefully received by the present Hon. Secretary, beg to call the attention of the Charitable to the pressing needs of the Poor, whose sufferings they daily witness and endeavour to mitigate as far as the limited means entrusted to them permit. The Irish Times.
Rev. JOSEPH CONNELLAN, Aasleagh Rectory, Leenane, Co. Galway.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1919.

Reports from Helsingfors, which lack confirmation, speak of a great rising in Russia, of Moscow being surrounded by the insurgents, and of a hostile army of 55,000 having taken and sacked Tomburg and Ural.

The exchange was effected yesterday in Paris of the ratification of the Treaty signed by England and France at Versailles, assuring British aid for France in case of an unprovoked attack by Germany.

Major O'Neill, Captain Redmond, Mr. Pretyman, and Mr. Moles, in the debate on the housing scheme in the House of Commons yesterday, urged the Chief Secretary to extend the building subsidy to Ireland. Several members criticised the action of the Local Government Board in requiring the erection of houses that would involve large burdens on the local authorities. Mr. Macpherson defended his scheme, promised to consult the Local Government Board with a view to the encouragement of housing construction, and undertook to consider the question of the building subsidy.

In the course of his statement of the Government's housing proposals in the House of Commons yesterday Dr. Addison denied that the existing scheme has been a failure. He stated, however, that, in order to enlist private enterprise and stimulate the building of houses, the Government had decided to pay a subsidy of £150 towards the building of each house. Also, they proposed to inaugurate a local municipal investments campaign. Mr. Lloyd George appealed to workers to redouble their efforts and to suspend certain of their union regulations in order that additional labour might be employed in the erection of the houses. When Sir Edward Carson asked whether the building subsidy would be extended to Ireland Mr. Lloyd George referred him to Mr. Macpherson, who is in charge of the Irish scheme.

The Archbishop of Dublin presided at the annual distribution of prizes at the Diocesan Intermediate School for Girls in Dublin yesterday, and congratulated the teachers and pupils on a successful year.

In a statement which it issued in Dublin last night, the Irish Dominion League outlined a scheme of settlement for Ireland which it is prepared to support. The scheme includes an acknowledgment by legislative Act of the right of Ireland to a measure of self-government within the Empire equal to that enjoyed by the Dominions overseas.

A meeting of citizens was held in the Dublin Mansion House last evening with the object of forming a branch of the Middle Classes Union.

At a meeting of the Unionist Forward Movement in the Kingstown district yesterday it was decided to form a Unionist club in the township.

In consequence of a strike affecting all the printers in Londonderry, there will be no publication of the Londonderry Sentinel to-day.

Banks and "Recognition."

We have refrained hitherto from comment on the dispute between the Irish banks and a large majority of their staffs; but now the issue has ceased to be domestic. A crisis has arisen which threatens loss and confusion to the whole country unless good-will and common-sense prevail within the next few days. For many years the Irish banks have enjoyed great prosperity and have paid large dividends to their shareholders. To this prosperity, as the directors have acknowledged freely at every half-yearly meeting, the zeal and efficiency of the staffs have made important contributions. The increasing cost of living has fallen with peculiar heaviness on these officials, who are required to maintain a good social status and to "live up to" their high responsibilities. The banks have made certain additions to salaries since the war began, but the staffs are not satisfied, and last year the Irish Bank Officials' Association was started in support of their claims. At the present time the Association has 3,000 members—about 80 per cent. of the whole number of bank officials in Ireland. It demands "recognition" from the directorates, and has taken a ballot of its members on the project of a strike, if "recognition" should be refused. The ballot will be counted this evening, but it is known that at least 90 per cent. of the votes have been given in favour of a strike. If the Executive Committee ratifies this decision, the Association's members will give the banks "a month's notice" next Monday. To-day we print a statement from seven of the nine leading banks—the Provincial and Royal Banks have not signed it—in which the Association's demand for "recognition" is rejected. This is an exceedingly grave situation, about which our readers cannot afford to have illusions. Educated men, most of whom have given hostages to fortune, do not reach vital decisions without having counted the cost. It seems to be certain that a strike will begin a month hence unless the banks and their staffs can come to terms; and that a large majority of the officials will support it. Such a strike would react disastrously on every trade and industry in Ireland; and it might last for a long time. It would shatter those relations of friendship and confidence between directors and staffs which mean so much to the smooth working of the banks. Neither the directors nor their staffs can contemplate that prospect without grave misgivings. Here, if ever, is a case for calm discussion and the animus conciliandi. The difference between the Association and the directors does not seem to be as wide as a church door or as deep as a well. The banks declare—justly, in our view—that they can allow no external body to interfere in questions of internal management. Obviously they have right and reason with them when they say that "outsiders" must not be permitted to get information about any bank's private affairs. The Association, on the other hand, disclaims any desire to interfere in "management" as apart from the "welfare of the officials." Again, while the banks are ready to "recognise" internal guilds of their respective staffs, the Association agrees that its delegation to the directors of any bank shall consist of officials of that bank, plus the Association's organising secretary. This gentleman's position, therefore, seems to be the crux of the whole affair—a crux, surely, that should be capable of solution without the devastation and bitterness of a strike. The public, after all, has a paramount interest in the matter, and it will expect both the banks and the Association to leave no avenue of compromise unexplored. Why, for instance, should the banks be unwilling to submit the difficulty to arbitration? We refuse to believe that such a man as, say, Lord Askwith or Sir John Ross or Sir Plunket Barton (we cite these distinguished names without permission) would be baffled by the task of redrafting the banks officials' claim to the satisfaction of both parties to the dispute.

The Peace Treaty.

The American Senate has refused to ratify the Peace Treaty. After much heated discussion it adjourned on Wednesday sine die, and, for the present at any rate, so far as America is concerned, the Treaty is a dead-letter. The attitude of the Senate was extraordinary. Three proposals were made. In the first place, the Senate was asked to ratify the Treaty as amended by the reservations en bloc. In the next place, it was asked to ratify the Treaty as originally formulated. Finally, it was asked to vote on the reservations seriatim. To all these proposals the Senate said "No." It maintained an attitude of blank negation, with the result that the Treaty remains in the position which it occupied six months ago. The British people would be very foolish to take the Senate's refusal too tragically. Enemies of Britain and America, doubtless, will translate it into a serious breach of Anglo-American relations; but Americans, as well as ourselves, are accustomed to this kind of propaganda, which can safely be ignored. The American Senate is jealous of its powers. Under the Constitution of the United States it is the partner of the President, and he cannot act independently of its opinion. Europe did not understand this fact. When President Wilson came to Paris everybody thought that he was a sort of Great Mogul, whose word was law and whose authority owed allegiance to nobody. The American Senate had a different opinion. President Wilson undoubtedly acted in a high-handed manner. He did not trouble to ascertain the views of the Senate on the vital matters of peace, and made decisions on behalf of the American people which all the world—except the Senate—accepted as such. He alone was responsible for the embodiment of the Covenant of the League of Nations in the Peace Treaty. Doubtless, he thought that the Senate, although it might conceivably reject the League, would never reject the Treaty; but he reckoned without his hosts. They have rejected the Treaty; their injured pride has been avenged; and "old man" Wilson has been put in his place. Now that the Senate has vindicated its rights, however, it may begin to think. It will reassemble probably at the beginning of December. The Treaty will come before it once more—this time, however, not as the quod scripsi, scripsi of an autocratic President, but as an instrument, contrived by statesmen whom sorrow has made wise, for the restoration of peace to a shattered world.

Mr. Bonar Law hopes that the Senate will change its mind. We believe that it will change its mind. At present an impossible situation has arisen. America can do no trade with Germany; the Government stubbornly refuses to send Consuls to a country with which the United States are still at war. The American, even the American Senator, is nothing if he is not a business man, and, if for no higher reasons than commercial reasons, he will be forced to the conclusion that a grave mistake has been made. Whatever happens, however, Mr. Bonar Law assures us that Europe will proceed with its scheduled programme. Peace will come into being automatically, and the League of Nations will be formed. In this assurance we can rejoice. A serious blow, however, has been struck at the hopes of our French Allies. The proposed three-cornered Treaty between America, Great Britain, and France falls to the ground without America's consent. France put much more trust in this Treaty than she put in the League of Nations. Her partiality for tangible safeguards against Germany is easy to understand. In view of the growing suspicion that the fires of Prussian militarism are still smouldering, America's refusal to come to the aid of France in case of need would, indeed, be deplorable. We refuse to believe that the great American democracy will leave France in the lurch. Until definite action has been taken, however, Europe must prepare for all emergencies. We must be ready to do without America if need be. To that end France and Great Britain must come still closer together; they can afford to take no risks. If the two veteran Allies are united more firmly as a consequence of the American Senate's action, it may prove to be a blessing in disguise. After all, the Senate is not America. The real America is cheering herself hoarse in Broadway and singing the merited praises of the Heir to the British Throne. This is the America upon whose help Europe relies. It is the America which will not be found wanting. We shall do well to be patient and to await events. The political see-saw in Washington is in constant motion, but the weight of solid Anglo-Saxon opinion will ultimately weigh it down on the right side. The new world has been grafted on the old by the war. No human force can ever separate them again. In the wise and hopeful words of ex-President Taft, "the great body of the American people realise that they must unite with other nations in saving the world from future catastrophe. European countries must be patient with us."

Irish Housing.

The Government has decided to recast its housing scheme for Great Britain, and its new plans were revealed to the House of Commons by Dr. Addison last night. In the first place, it proposes to give further facilities to local authorities for raising loans. A scheme which will provide "a very attractive form of local municipal investment" will be launched in the course of a few days. In the second place, the Government will invoke the aid of private enterprise. At the present time private building is virtually non-existent. It is an unprofitable business. The scarcity of labour and the high cost of material make it impossible to erect workmen's dwellings which could be let at economic rents. Mr. Lloyd George recognises the existence of this "chasm," and proposes to bridge it by giving a subsidy of £150 to every person who builds a house of an approved type within the next twelve months. Then the building trade is to be organised so as to produce the greatest possible output, and severe restrictions will be placed on luxury building. All these measures are sound and business-like. Will they be applied to Ireland? The Irish members pressed for an answer to this question, but got very little satisfaction. Mr. Macpherson described the Irish Housing Act as his "own child," and, like a fond parent, he has strong faith in its efficiency. We agree with him that it should be given a fair chance. The facts, however, must be faced. Local authorities contended from the outset that the Irish scheme would not yield the desired results without placing intolerable burdens on the rates. Everything that has happened in the interval seems to support this opinion. In Belfast, for instance—where, by common consent, the Act has the best opportunity of proving its usefulness—it has been found that houses of the types specified by the Local Government Board cannot be built for less than £910. At this figure every house would cost the ratepayers £36 per year. If this be true, what chance is there of the poorer towns, where the workers are paid on a lower scale, making their building schemes a success? Ireland's housing problem is not less acute than Great Britain's, and its solution will require all the resources that the State can mobilise. We hope, therefore, that Mr. Macpherson will soon be able to announce that he has prepared a scheme which will place the two islands on an equal footing so far as the encouragement of building is concerned. Delay is dangerous.

The "Profiteering" Act.

The special meeting of the Dublin Corporation convened yesterday to consider the establishment of a "Profiteering" Committee in Dublin fell through for want of a quorum. It is a significant commentary on the conduct of our civic affairs that members of the Corporation should show so little interest in a matter which is of vital importance to every citizen of Dublin. Our city has lagged behind while English cities have come to grips with the ubiquitous "profiteer." Other Irish towns have formed committees; but the members of the Dublin Corporation—with a few notable exceptions—do not seem to have sufficient public spirit to attend a meeting which had as its object the launching of an offensive against the "profiteers." Do our city fathers believe that there are no "profiteers" in Dublin, or are they merely indifferent? Some weeks ago the Rathmines and other Urban Councils appointed committees under the "Profiteering" Act. Their example was excellent, but we should be glad to have some tangible evidence of the activities of the committees. What have they done to exterminate "profiteering?" Another special meeting of the Corporation has been called for next Friday. The citizens should insist upon the attendance of all their representatives. It is nothing less than a scandal that the premier Irish Corporation should be allowed to neglect the interests of the community which it pretends to serve.

DERRY PRINTERS' STRIKE.

LOCAL PAPER SUSPENDS PUBLICATION.

The compositors and linotype operators employed in the Derry newspaper and printing offices have come out on strike, and in consequence there will be no publication to-day of the Londonderry Sentinel, the only paper issued in the city on Saturday morning. The Derry Journal and Derry Standard will not be published on Monday. The printers were requested by their Executive in Manchester to suspend the strike notices pending a conference on Tuesday. The men refused to carry on until Tuesday unless the employers gave a guarantee that the back pay at the increased rates would be paid. The dispute is over the question whether an advance of wages should be made retrospective as from July last. The employers granted the increase as from the first week in September, but the men declined to accept.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

Friday, usually a day of Parliamentary odds and ends, was to-day devoted to business which drew members in large numbers to Westminster. There was, in the first place, a statement by Mr. Bonar Law on the action of the United States Senate in holding up the ratification of the Peace Treaty with Germany. That was in answer to a question by Mr. A. Henderson, but the Leader of the House was not in a position to add much to what has already appeared in the public Press. It was, perhaps, unfortunate, but he had still hopes that, when the United States Senate met early in December, there might be a modification of views on the subject of the League of Nations. In any case, the step taken by the Senate would not prevent the ratification of the Treaty, but another situation arose in regard to the Anglo-French-American Treaty. This, he pointed out, had not yet been ratified by America, and the obligations undertaken by Great Britain in the matter were conditional upon the United States assuming the same obligations.

The main business was, however, the disclosure by Dr. Addison of the new proposals for dealing with the housing problem. Speaking in a rapid, even undertone for something over an hour, the Minister of Health devoted a good deal of his time to an explanation of the reasons why the ambitious programme of the Government had failed to materialise. So far, the complaint had been that, though there was plenty of straw, there were few bricks, and Dr. Addison laid the blame for this upon his predecessor, Lord Downham, better known as Mr. Hayes Fisher. Nevertheless, real progress was being made, and the fresh proposals he had brought down would, he hoped, result in a rapid acceleration. He was not, however, going to be stampeded by the "stunt" Press into the erection of cheap and nasty houses. Sufficient land had, he said, been approved for the erection of half a million homes, and private enterprise was to be invoked by offering builders a subsidy of £150 for each house erected. This offer was limited to twelve months. A scheme would be announced in a few days for the financing of local authorities, and agreements had been made with the Builders' Federation, as a result of which he hoped that, where 100 houses had been built, they would now build 500.

One part of the Minister's speech which evoked a cheer was his announcement that luxury building was to be checked, and steps taken to provide security of tenure for people occupying decent homes.

Subsequent speakers were not disposed to be too critical, though some doubts were expressed as to the outcome of the scheme. The price proposed to be paid was considered to be too high, and Captain Pretyman quoted cases where good five-room dwellings had been built and sold at a profit for £500, even with the present rise in the cost of materials.

The Prime Minister intervened in the debate before it closed. He agreed as to the urgency of the problem, particularly in the rural areas, where the insufficiency of houses had a marked effect upon food production. He justified the giving of the subsidy as an attempt to stimulate private builders and alleviate their fears. The subsidy was not confined to builders, but would be payable to anyone who built an approved house. The subsidy was preferable to a State loan, or to the State building of houses. The remedy, he continued, lay to a great extent in the working classes themselves, and he appealed to the trade unions to relax restrictions which would prevent the calling in of outside help. The new Housing Bill would be brought in next week.

Major O'Neill said that the housing problem was even worse in Ireland than in England. All the considerations of financial difficulties, of building difficulties, and so on, which applied to England applied with equal force to Ireland. The position in rural areas and small towns was particularly acute, and he was quite unable to agree with the Chief Secretary's recent pronouncement that the housing scheme in Ireland was, on the whole, being satisfactorily carried out.

Mr. Redmond criticised the action of the Local Government Board in dealing with Irish housing schemes, and in this matter he was pleased to be able to find himself in complete accord with the member for Ulster.

The Chief Secretary demurred to the suggestion that the Irish Housing Act was a bad one. He had, in introducing it, taken his political reputation in his hands, and the longer he lived the more content he was to stand by it. What he asked was that the Act should be given a fair chance. He promised later on to reconsider the position in the light of the new proposals now brought forward for England, but, in the meantime, he urged the Irish members of all parties to support the Irish Housing Act.

After Ireland the Scottish attitude of the housing question was discussed, and it was not until nearly eight o'clock that the House was enabled to rise, and then only by the process of counting out.

Lord Downham is not likely to take lying down the castigation inflicted upon him by Dr. Addison in the housing debate to-day. Even though a remark by Lord Downham in the Lords the other day may have given him a certain provocation, it is most unusual for a Minister of the Crown to turn upon an old colleague as Dr. Addison did this afternoon, and I doubt if his accusation that the late President of the Local Government Board had neglected his work will be at all pleasing to the Unionist members of the Coalition. As Mr. Hayes Fisher, Lord Downham was private secretary to Mr. Balfour throughout his Chief Secretaryship, and he afterwards rose to be Secretary of the Treasury. I dare say that, like most of us, he has his faults, but I never heard that idleness was one of them.

I rather suspect that Dr. Addison's attack was partly due to the prejudice entertained by the semi-socialistic school of politicians against the Local Government Board and all its works. It had an unattractive name, and it protected the ratepayer against a good many foolish schemes put forward by soi-disant "social reformers," and for these reasons was anathema to them. But it did very good work throughout its career in a sensible, unobtrusive way. Dr. Addison will be lucky if he leaves the Ministry of Health with an equally good record.

The "Wee Frees" have lost no time in declaring war upon the Anti-Dumping Bill, but I do not think that there is much likelihood of their defeating it, or even seriously modifying its provisions, for it contains little or nothing that did not appear in the Coalition addresses at the last election. In fact, it is likely to be in more danger from the extreme Tariff Reformers, who complain that it does not go nearly far enough in protecting our industries against foreign competition.

If some popular leader would boldly oppose the Bill on the ground that what the trade of the country most needs is to be freed from all Government control, instead of being subjected to more of it, I fancy he would meet with a surprising amount of support. People of all classes are simply "fed up" with restrictions. But I do not see any prospect of such a leader emerging from the Liberal Party. It is too much afraid of the trade unions, whose spokesmen are not opposed in principle to Government control, because they regard it as clearing the way for the socialistic State.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, BELFAST.

The King, on the recommendation of the Lord Lieutenant, has appointed Sir Alexander Dempsey, M.D.; Mr. John Burke, Mr. Charles Louis MacLarinan, LL.D., and Miss Mary Anne Hutton to be members of the new Senate of Queen's University, Belfast.

sion that a grave mistake has been made. Whatever happens, however, Mr. Bonar Law assures us that Europe will proceed with its scheduled programme. Peace will come into being automatically, and the League of Nations will be formed. In this assurance we can rejoice. A serious blow, however, has been struck at the hopes of our French Allies. The famous three-cornered Treaty between America, Great Britain, and France falls to the ground without America's consent. France put much more trust in this Treaty than she put in the League of Nations. Her partiality for tangible safeguards against Germany is easy to understand. In view of the growing suspicion that the fires of Prussian militarism are still smouldering, America's refusal to come to the aid of France in case of need would, indeed, be deplorable. We refuse to believe that the great American democracy will leave France in the lurch. Until definite action has been taken, however, Europe must prepare for all emergencies. We must be ready to do without America if need be. To that end France and Great Britain must come still closer together; they can afford to take no risks. If the two veteran Allies are united more firmly as a consequence of the American Senate's action, it may prove to be a blessing in disguise. After all, the Senate is not America. The real America is cheering herself hoarse on Broadway and singing the merited praises of the Heir to the British Throne. This is the America upon whose help Europe relies. It is the America which will not be found wanting. We shall do well to be patient and to await events. The political see-saw in Washington is in constant motion, but the weight of solid Anglo-Saxon opinion will ultimately weigh it down on the right side. The new world has been grafted on the old by the war. No human force can ever separate them again. In the wise and hopeful words of ex-President Taft, "the great body of the American people realise that they must unite with other nations in saving the world from future catastrophe. European countries must be patient with us."

Irish Housing.

The Government has decided to re-cast its housing scheme for Great Britain, and its new plans were revealed to the House of Commons by Dr. Addison last night. In the first place, it proposes to give further facilities to local authorities for raising loans. A scheme which will provide "a very attractive form of local municipal investment" will be launched in the course of a few days. In the second place, the Government will invoke the aid of private enterprise. At the present time private building is virtually non-existent. It is an unprofitable business. The scarcity of labour and the high cost of material make it impossible to erect workmen's dwellings which could be let at economic rents. Mr. Lloyd George recognises the existence of this "chasm," and proposes to bridge it by giving a subsidy of £150 to every person who builds a house of an approved type within the next twelve months. Then the building trade is to be organised so as to produce the greatest possible output, and severe restrictions will be placed on luxury building. All these measures are sound and business-like. Will they be applied to Ireland? The Irish members pressed for an answer to this question, but got very little satisfaction. Mr. Macpherson described the Irish Housing Act as his "own child," and, like a fond parent, he has strong faith in its efficiency. We agree with him that it should be given a fair chance. The facts, however, must be faced. Local authorities contended from the outset that the Irish scheme would not yield the desired results without placing intolerable burdens on the rates. Everything that has happened in the interval seems to support this opinion. In Belfast, for instance—where, by common consent, the Act has the best opportunity of proving its usefulness—it has been found that houses of the types specified by the Local Government Board cannot be built for less than £910. At this figure every house would cost the ratepayers £30 per year. If this be true, what chance is there of the poorer towns, where the workers are paid on a lower scale, making their building schemes a success? Ireland's housing problem is not less acute than Great Britain's, and its solution will require all the resources that the State can mobilise. We hope, therefore, that Mr. Macpherson will soon be able to announce that he has prepared a scheme which will place the two islands on an equal footing so far as the encouragement of building is concerned. Delay is dangerous.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

OUR TREATY WITH FRANCE.

Commenting on Mr. Bonar Law's answers in the House of Commons last night to questions on the subject of the effect of the refusal of the United States Senate to ratify the Peace Treaty upon the British Treaty "respecting assistance to France in the event of unprovoked aggression by Germany," The Times, in a leading article to-day, says:—We do not hesitate to say that his answers will cause dismay and resentment among the masses of the French people. As academic expositions of the situation made to a gathering of expert diplomatists they might have been harmless, but the great body of even the most intelligent democracies do not readily appreciate technical niceties. When plain French citizens are informed, on the authority of the Leader of the House of Commons, that any obligation undertaken by England under this Treaty is contingent upon the acceptance of a like undertaking by the United States, when they are reminded further on the same authority that this contingency has not, in fact, been fulfilled, we are afraid they may be very much perturbed. Mr. Bonar Law's refusal to say that "another situation will not make a new condition of affairs," will hardly reassure them. What they want is a clear and unambiguous assurance that, whatever the Senate may do with the Franco-American Treaty, England will hasten to do her part in the event contemplated by the Anglo-French Treaty. We have not the smallest doubt that this is what she would do, or that the Government intend, if necessary, to do it. They know that the country would not tolerate for a day any Government whom it suspected of hesitation on the subject. The simplest dictates of honour, the most elementary considerations of self-interest, make any other course impossible. Our complaint is that Mr. Bonar Law did not make this perfectly plain to France, as he ought to have done. He ought to have remembered on Friday, as the Prime Minister ought to have remembered on Monday, that the statements of British Ministers in Parliament are heard and scrutinised all over the world. It is the height of indiscretion to frame them as though they had no audience but the House, or our people at home. Ministers never tire of inculcating the truth that they have other listeners whenever they are asked questions on foreign affairs which they desire to evade. They should practise what they preach, and bear constantly in mind that we have many watchful and unscrupulous enemies, always eager to blacken our character, particularly to our friends. We cannot avoid calumny. We can avoid providing it with specious grounds for maligning us, as Ministers have twice over so provided it gratuitously this week.

FRANCE AND THE SENATE.

The Paris Correspondent of The Times, telegraphing yesterday, expresses the impression which the rejection of the Peace Treaty by the American Senate has created in Paris. Mr. Wilson, rightly or wrongly, he says, was accepted by the mass of the nation as representing American opinion, and it is impossible for the French to believe that the League of Nations is now to be lacking in the very important motive and moral force of American participation. Quite apart from moral and political considerations, there are a number of other reasons which make the French follow with the closest interest the development of the debate in the Senate. The League of Nations has provision for machinery of the most varied nature, with a view to solving by international effort problems too big to be settled by national endeavour. There is, for instance, to take the most concrete of these matters, the question of the economic section of the League of Nations, without which the serious difficulties of feeding the world will be more complicated than they are at present. France requires a very large quantity of wheat to carry her over between harvests, and her position is infinitely better than that of most of Europe. Much had been expected from American co-operation through the League of Nations in this respect. There is also the even more important question of international exchange. It is felt widely in financial circles here that uncertainty as to America's international intentions is one of several factors which threaten completely to interrupt inter-Allied trade, and to bring about a complete collapse of the world's financial system. When once the Senate has adopted the Peace Treaty—for it is still hoped that some compromise may be found which, while satisfying the Senate, will not destroy the work of Versailles—it is believed that Transatlantic credits will immediately be forthcoming, which will enable French trade to make its weight felt in the world's exchange market.

THE FUTURE OF THE COALITION.

Speculation about the future of the Coalition, says The Times, has been revived by the Political Note which appeared in its columns of Thursday on Mr. Bonar Law's ballon d'essai for "fusion." The process of fusing the Unionist and Liberal elements of the Coalition into a permanent party has not got beyond the kite-flying stage. Mr. Bonar Law's speech followed hard on the widely circulated expression of the hope of a prominent Unionist organiser that the Coalition would form the foundation of a permanently fused party. The movement for a new party has been definitely launched, but it is too early yet to speak of it as a fait accompli. The question will eventually be decided by the pressure of events, such as the imminence of a General Election, or the announcement of a new programme. For the present, while the Government is working off the programme outlined in the election manifesto issued just twelve months ago by Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Bonar Law, the Coalition will go on as before. Meanwhile, every avenue in the direction of fusion will be explored, and every endeavour will be made to overcome the opposition which is appearing among the Unionist rank and file.

ANOTHER BIG BANK ALLIANCE.

The Times understands that an announcement may be expected shortly, and probably in the early part of next week, of another scheme of alliance between one of the big London banks and an important Scottish bank. It is being arranged on similar lines to those of the alliance just concluded between Barclay's Bank and the British Linen Bank.

COURT CIRCULAR.

VICEREGAL LODGE, DUBLIN.

FRIDAY.

His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant gave a dinner party at the Viceregal Lodge this evening. The following had the honour of being invited:—The Most Rev. C. F. D'Arcy, D.D. (Archbishop of Dublin); Mrs., Miss, and Miss D. F. D'Arcy; Lord HolmPatrick, the Hon. Mrs. Ernest Guinness, the Provost of Trinity College and Mrs. Dobbs, Mrs. Macpherson, Miss Pike, Miss Wyndham Quin, Mr. Devlin, and Mr. Harrison.

THE CONGESTED DISTRICTS BOARD.

The King has appointed Mr. Thomas Francis Smyth to be a member of the Congested Districts Board for Ireland, in the room of Mr. John Fitzgibbon, deceased.

THE ELECTION OF A REPRESENTATIVE PEER.

The Clerk of the Crown and Hanaper announces that writs have been issued for the election of a Temporal Peer of Ireland, to succeed to the vacancy made in the House of Lords by the demise of Hercules Edward, Baron Langford.

THE ESTATES COMMISSIONERS.

The Estates Commissioners, the Right Hon. Frederick Wrench (Chairman), Mr. Commissioner Stuart, and Sir Edward O'Farrell, K.C.B., sat yesterday at the offices, Upper Merrion street, Dublin, and disposed of a long list of cases under the Land Purchase Acts, the majority of which were in "the delay list." In most of these cases the originating appplications were lodged in 1907 and 1908, and the Commissioners' requisitions in some cases were outstanding since 1914 and 1915. The purchase moneys of the estates on the list represented well over £100,000, and in six of the cases the purchase money, the advance of which had been sanctioned by the Commissioners, could be paid into the Bank of Ireland within fourteen days if the vendors' prima facie title to sell was proved.

AMERICA AND THE TREATY.

EFFECT ON GREAT BRITAIN.

STATEMENT BY MR. BONAR LAW.

At the sitting of the House of Commons yesterday,

Mr. A. Henderson said—May I ask the Leader of the House whether he can now make a statement in reply to the question submitted on the adjournment last night?

Mr. Bonar Law—The facts are in substance as described in the newspapers, and, so far as we can judge, they are these: The Senate of the United States has adjourned without passing resolutions which it is part of the treaty-making power that the United States must pass before the President can ratify the Treaty of Peace with Germany. The inability of the United States representative in Paris to deposit the President's ratification of the Treaty at the same time as those of the Powers are deposited would not prevent the remaining Allied and Associated Powers from carrying the Treaty into effect.

Sir D. Maclean—May we take it that, whatever happens in regard to other countries, there will be no slackening in the determination of His Majesty's Government to do all in their power to take the lead, at any rate, in seeing that the League of Nations becomes an effective instrument of human progress?

Mr. Bonar Law—My right hon. friend need have no doubt about that. I think it would be a mistake to assume that the possibility of help from the United States has gone.

Lord R. Cecil—Will there be any modification of the probable date which the Prime Minister was good enough to indicate as the date of ratification?

Mr. Bonar Law—It is impossible for me to make a statement on the matter. It must depend on whether or not at the meeting of the Senate early in December there will be a possibility of a change of view.

Sir S. Hoare—Can the right honourable gentleman say whether the action of the Congress has made any difference to the Anglo-French American Treaty?

Mr. Bonar Law—My hon. friend knows that our undertaking under that Treaty is contingent on its being carried out by the United States. Up to now the Treaty has not been considered—at all events it has not been ratified by the United States.

Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy—With regard to the Anglo-French American Treaty, are we to understand that our assurances and insurances to the French Government stand irrespective of America's action?

Mr. Bonar Law—So far as the obligation of this country is concerned, it does not go to make a new position of affairs. I do not say that another situation will not make a new condition of affairs. So far as our obligation is concerned, it is contingent on the United States Government taking the same obligation.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S ATTITUDE.

A Reuter's Washington telegram of yesterday says:—It is officially stated that President Wilson will discuss the whole subject of the Treaty of Versailles in his message to Congress on December 1, and until then he will make no statement on the subject of the Senate's rejection of the ratification measure.

FRENCH VIEWS.

The Temps (Paris), commenting on the American deadlock, says that there are hopes that a solution will be found, because, even if the League of Nations can live while waiting for the United States to join, it cannot live without the United States. The journal recalls the fact that the Algeciras Treaty of 1906 was ratified by the United States with strong reserve, but, nevertheless, the United States faithfully fulfilled it.

REPORTED RISINGS IN RUSSIA.

MOSCOW SURROUNDED BY INSURGENTS.

BOLSHEVIK THRUST AT DENIKIN.

An Exchange Company's message from Helsingfors states, on the authority of a wireless message, that Tomburg and Ural have been taken and sacked by a hostile army 55,000 strong.

A great rising is reported, and Moscow is surrounded by insurgents.

The leaders of the Red Army say that the rebellion is of capital importance.

No confirmation of this message has been received.

THE MILITARY SITUATION.

The War Office makes the following announcement:—

South Russia.—The following was the situation in South Russia on the 18th, according to reports received at the War Office:—On the front of the Caucasus army there was no change. West of Kokohopersk the Don army had captured St. Tishank with 300 prisoners and a brigade staff. The Bolsheviks have gained some ground by counter-attacks south of Varonej, on the east bank of the Don, but on the west bank have been compelled to retire some little distance. General Shkuro has held his ground at Kastornoe against repeated enemy assaults.

HELP FOR FRANCE.

THE TREATY WITH BRITAIN.

The Press Association Paris Correspondent says:—The exchange of ratifications of the Anglo-French Guarantee Treaty, by which Great Britain, subject to certain conditions, guarantees aid to France in the event of an unprovoked attack on France by Germany, took place between Sir Eyre Crowe and M. Pichon at the Ministry for Foreign Affairs at 5 o'clock on Thursday evening.

M. CLEMENCEAU.

A Paris telegram, dated Friday, states:—M. Clemenceau's intimates declare that the veteran Premier will not give effect to his determination to retire from the Parliamentary arena before January 14th. The Senatorial elections take place on January 11th. In the week following his return from Vendée, where he is at present resting, M. Clemenceau will deal with the position arising out of the non-election of certain members of the Cabinet. M. Viviani, the ex-Premier, says that M. Clemenceau will become President of the Republic in the new year.

IRISH POLICE PENSIONS.

Replying to Sir Edward Carson, in the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Macpherson said that he was not yet in a position to make a definite statement in regard to increased pensions for ex-members of the Royal Irish Constabulary and the Dublin Metropolitan Police. He had, however, received draft proposals from his advisers, which he was submitting to the Treasury.

THREATENED BANK STRIKE.

STATEMENT BY DIRECTORS.

NO RECOGNITION OF OFFICIALS' UNION.

REPLY BY EMPLOYEES' ASSOCIATION.

The following statement was issued last evening by seven of the banking corporations in Ireland:—

In view of the many imperfect, and in some respects misleading, statements that have been published in regard to the relation of the Irish banks to their staffs, and the attitude of the banks to the Bank Clerks' Association, the Irish banks whose names are appended desire to make the following statement:—

The directors of each bank are, and have always been, willing to hear and fully consider any communication addressed to them by members of their own respective staffs in regard to salaries, bonus, or conditions of service, and for this purpose are quite willing to recognise an internal Guild or Association composed of members of their respective staffs, provided no interference is attempted in questions relating to the management, which the shareholders have committed to the Boards of Directors.

The directors of the banks cannot recognise the Association of the Irish Bank Clerks for the following reasons:—That Association, composed of members from all the banks, with a Secretary who is not a banker, has explicitly claimed to interfere in questions of the internal management of each bank, including the efficiency, capability, and appropriate salaries of members of the staff of each bank, matters with which the directors of each bank are alone competent to deal. A programme has been put forward by the Association by which the salaries of the staffs of all the banks are to increase automatically up to £500 per annum, free of income tax, irrespective of the attainments and efficiency of individual members of the staff, thus impairing the function of the directors to reward special merit.

They also require that any member of any of the staffs of any of the banks whom for any cause the directors of such bank may find it necessary to dismiss or compulsorily retire, shall be entitled, irrespective of his length of service, to receive an adequate pension, thus putting a premium on incompetence, grave irregularity, and inefficiency.

Other demands of the Association involve a claim to interfere in all questions of promotion and dismissal. Such interference by the Association would necessarily be based on a very imperfect knowledge as to the circumstances of each particular bank and the qualifications of its members, and, in effect, would hand over the management and prospects of the staff of one bank to a majority composed of members of other banks. Such a system would be entirely unworkable, and would involve a claim by outsiders to obtain information from members of the staff of each bank as to its internal affairs, which it is the clear duty of such staff not to disclose.

The directors of all the banks have been, and are, giving large increases in salary and bonus to all their staffs since the rise in prices, and are, and have always been, quite willing to give sympathetic consideration to all relevant matters in relation to their staffs. The present position is that a clerk of 17 years of age begins in most cases with a salary of £80, together with a bonus, varying somewhat in each bank, in many cases amounting to £30 per annum, followed by annual increases of from £10 to £15, up to £200 or £250 per annum, and a practical certainty of going much higher if he proves satisfactory. Further, it is open to every official to attain by his ability to the highest positions that the bank has to offer. Each official, on completion of his qualifying service, receives on retirement an annual pension, which may amount to two-thirds of his emoluments. The widows of officials in most cases receive annuities or grants, and, in addition, many of the banks have insurance schemes, under which officials are encouraged to take out policies on their lives, the banks sharing in the annual premium of such insurance.

Few services or business careers provide such constant increases in salary and so many chances of obtaining such desirable positions, with such reasonable hours of work and such liberal pensions. This is shown by the number of applications for vacancies.

The directors of the Irish banks, as representing the shareholders, feel that it is only right to put forward the above statement, and, in doing so, greatly regret that an effort has been made to disturb the hitherto cordial relations existing between themselves and their staffs.

BANK OF IRELAND.

HIBERNIAN BANK, LIMITED.
MUNSTER AND LEINSTER BANK, LIMITED.
NATIONAL BANK, LIMITED.
NORTHERN BANKING COMPANY, LIMITED.
ULSTER BANK, LIMITED.

BANK OF IRELAND AND ITS OFFICIALS.

The following letter has been sent to every member of the staff of the Bank of Ireland:—

"As it is publicly stated that some of you contemplate sending in notices which will terminate your engagement with the Bank, the Governors and Directors desire me to ask you carefully to consider the following:—

"That such a course would be contrary to all the loyal traditions of the Bank's service. That the sending of such notice means the severance of your connection with the Bank, and involves very great risk to your own future and to those dependent on you. That no sufficient cause exists for taking such a risk. That the Governors and Directors are quite prepared to meet a deputation from the staff of head office and branches, and to consider any suggestions or proposals they may have to submit. That the Governors and Directors, so far from having objection, are willing to facilitate your forming an internal association, and for this purpose would arrange a meeting room and pay reasonable expenses of country members attending the Council of such an association. That the Governors and Directors will not raise any objection to your belonging to an outside association, but that they will not allow, and will resist by every means, interference by people who are not in the service of this Bank.

"With this information now before you, are you wise in taking such a serious step, which will finally terminate your service with the Bank? I am directed to send a copy of this letter to every official in the Bank's service.—Yours faithfully,

"THOMAS R. LANPHIER, Secretary."

OFFICIALS' REPLY TO DIRECTORS' STATEMENT.

Mr. Denroche, the Organising Secretary of the Irish Bank Officials' Association, has made the following statement in reply to the statement issued to the Press by seven of the Irish banks:—

It is not a fact that the Association explicitly or otherwise ever claimed to interfere in questions relating to the efficiency or capability of officials or relating to appropriate salaries. A scale of salaries was submitted to the directors as a suggested minimum scale for officials up to thirty years' service. The Association recognises that this scale would not be appropriate in the case of officials of special ability, and leaves that question to the discretion of the directors.

The directors have not adjusted their minds to the altered value of money. I suggest, with great respect, that in future, when they are tempted to speak and think of £500 they should try to speak and think of it as £220. Would £220 have been an extravagant salary for an official in a position of trust before the war? The Association has never required or suggested that any official whom from any cause the directors may find it necessary to dismiss or compulsorily retire, should be entitled to any pension, adequate or otherwise. I at least have never heard of such requirement or suggestion. If I am wrong the Directors will be able to publish the correspondence.

No demand of the Association involves a claim to interfere in any question of promotion or in any question of dismissal save as regards the latter where it also involves an injustice found to be such after investigation by a court of inquiry formed of members of the Association. A tribunal composed of both sides could be formed. The most charitable interpretation I can put on this statement of the directors is that, having hidden their heads in the sand up to the eleventh hour, they are now in a panic, and not responsible for their statements. I consider the proper time to discuss the strictly limited matters we claim to discuss is after recognition has been granted. Then if we ask for anything unreasonable or improper the directors can fight us, and we cannot win.

I am glad to see that the Provincial Bank and Royal Bank directors have had the common sense not to sign the statement.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S STATEMENT ABOUT RUSSIA.

A Times telegram from Helsingfors says—Anti-British circles utilise Mr. Lloyd George's recent statement about Russia to suggest that the Entente has fallen to pieces, and that England wished to see Russia dismembered. They advocate the favourite pro-German system of an alliance between France, Germany, and Russia. A Russian General informs me that, contrary to the impression which Mr. Lloyd George apparently wishes to create, that Britain had sufficiently supplied the anti-Bolshevist forces, the North-Western Army is suffering from the lack of artillery and shells. The enemy are reported to have heavily attacked the Esthonians at Orla, north-east of Narva, on the River Luga, and the Russians in the Yamburg sector with artillery and armoured cars. Despite official statements to the effect that all attacks were beaten off, I am credibly informed that about half the North-Western Army by last evening had retreated and crossed the Esthonian boundary. There is not a word of truth in the statement said to have been telegraphed from Dorpat that twenty thousand of Yudenitch's men have gone over to the Bolshevists.

UNIONIST FORWARD MOVEMENT.

MR. JELLETT, M.P., ON THE NEED OF ORGANISATION.

NEW CLUB FORMED AT KINGSTOWN.

A meeting of Unionists, under the auspices of the Irish Unionist Alliance, was held yesterday at the Parochial Hall, Glenageary, for the purpose of inaugurating a new forward movement amongst the Unionists of South County Dublin. Sir Francis Stronge, K.C.B., presided. There was a large attendance.

The Chairman said that the meeting had not been called for the purpose of convincing any persons attending it of the desirability of maintaining the Union. On that subject they were all agreed. The object of the meeting was rather to consider how they, in their small way, could help their friends who were working on a larger stage. The fate of the Union, and, to a great extent, the fate of the Unionist residents in Ireland, must ultimately depend on public opinion in England, as expressed at Westminster, and it was necessary that they at home should be in close touch with their friends and representatives in Parliament.

MR. JELLETT, M.P.

Mr. W. M. Jellett, K.C., M.P., who was cordially received, said that he could not help thinking that it might be useful to cast their eyes back for a moment and recollect what they had seen and known of movements in the past, and recollect, and never forget, what they had seen during the past four or five years. They might naturally ask themselves if anything had occurred which ought induce any member of the Unionist Party to change his opinion; was there any reason for suggesting that the views he held some years ago were wrong, having regard to what had happened? They knew too well that so far from there being any ground for weakening in their faith it had been strengthened tenfold, and every argument that they ever used in favour of the Union in the past had double weight now, when they found themselves confronted with a determined organisation which stopped at nothing—bloodshed or anything else—but the avowed object of which was to set up an independent Irish Republic. (Applause.)

CONSTITUTIONAL NATIONALISM.

In some quarters there was a curious misapprehension as to what was the meaning of Nationalist opinion in Ireland; and some people asserted that there was something which they called constitutional Nationalism—quite a mild thing, not a dangerous organisation like Sinn Fein—and that really there would be no harm in giving them what they asked for. Speaking for the so-called constitutional Nationalist Party in the House of Commons on 5th November, 1918, Mr. John Dillon, the leader, said—"As regards the demands of Ireland, we do not differ in the least degree, and never have differed, from the demands made by the present Sinn Feiners or by any of the National revolutionary parties in the past." So much for constitutional Nationalism. Both parties were out for the breaking up of the United Kingdom, and both were deadly enemies of the British Empire. It was the business of Irish Unionists to make the people on the other side of the Channel really understand the position and to spread the light, so that, whatever they may ultimately do, they will not do it under a misapprehension. Now, if ever, was the time for Unionists—North and South—to stand together. They were all out for the same object—to preserve the Union—and something should be done to enable Kingstown and district to do what was in its power in the Unionist cause. Once the issue was properly put before the British electorate and the House of Commons, he had no fear of the result.

A CLUB FORMED.

Mr. McGusty moved that a Unionist Club be formed for Kingstown and district in the constituency of South County Dublin, with the object of bringing in closer touch all who are willing to work for the maintenance of the Legislative Union, and that a committee be formed to give effect to this resolution. He said that he rather welcomed the idea that a Home Rule Bill should be introduced, because it involved discussion, and would enable men like Mr. Jellett to bring home the truth to the people in England. Once that truth was brought home to them, he had no doubt that they would ultimately win. (Applause.) He recommended the formation of a club, for it would enable them to combine and co-ordinate their efforts. (Applause.)

Major Phillips (Cork) seconded the motion. Referring to the introduction of the Home Rule Bill of 1886, he said that 34 years ago Unionists had fought a great fight, and there seemed to him no reason why they should not be successful to-day. He said that Sinn Fein had a long memory, and that to-day, by raids on the houses of the people, they had seized every pistol and blunderbuss that they possessed, not with the object of arming themselves, but to disarm the loyalists. They had, in fact, disarmed them so thoroughly that these people could not defend their own houses.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

A provisional committee to carry out the objects of the resolution was nominated until a permanent committee has been appointed.

In reply to Colonel Peacocke, the Chairman stated that the object was to form an association of workers rather than a social club.

Miss Elinor Stronge then gave an interesting and practical address on the principles and practice of canvassing and propaganda work.

The proceedings concluded with a vote of thanks, passed with acclamation, to Mrs. Randal Adams for her valuable help in organising the meeting.

OBITUARY.

THE HON. CECIL ATKINSON.

News reached Dublin yesterday of the death of the Hon. Cecil Thomas Atkinson, K.C., one of the Judges of the High Court of India, as the result of a railway accident while on his way from Bombay to Patna. Mr. Atkinson was the elder son of Lord Atkinson, one of the Lords of Appeal in England. He was educated in Trinity College, Dublin, and was called to the Irish Bar in 1901. He enjoyed a good practice at the Four Courts up to the time of his appointment in 1915 as Puisne Judge of Behar and Orissa. Mr. Atkinson, who resided at Patna, was 43 years of age, and the news of his death has been received with regret by his brethren of the Irish Bar, and all others with whom he came in contact while practising in this country.

THE THREATENED STRIKE OF CHEMISTS.

The Ministry of Labour is endeavouring to secure an agreement to leave the matter to arbitration in the dispute between the Federation of Chemists and the chemists' section of the Shop Assistants' Union, the Dublin area of which has decided to cease work at 9 o'clock to-night, failing the granting of their demands. The employers have asked for a committee of the Industrial Council consisting of four from each side, with Mr. Gordon Campbell, Secretary of the Ministry of Labour, as Chairman, to be appointed in order to find a way out of the deadlock, but the offer was refused by the assistants, who stated that they would send their organiser. To this the employers would not agree, and so the matter stands at present.

It is stated by the Dublin branch of the Assistants' Association that telegrams have been received from Belfast, Cork, Waterford, and Limerick, agreeing to the proposed strike.

THOUGHTS AND THEORIES.

THE GLOOM OF BRICKS.

A MONSTER OF THE PRIME.

(BY C. H. B.)

A DREAM IN STONE.

Among the unrecorded events of Biblical history not the least important, from the point of view of posterity, is the curse which Moses, newly escaped from Egyptian bondage, placed upon bricks and mortar. Since that time the nations that built with bricks have gone to the wall, while those that built of stone, steel, wood, plaster, or even paper, have flourished. The generations that built with bricks have been a blight, those that constructed their mansions of any other substance a blessing. Historians may doubt my statement. Let them explain, then, why no Jew will ever live in a brick-fronted house if he can help it. In particular, Moses decreed that cities builded of bricks and mortar should be gloomy and decadent—or, what is worse, gloomy and industrial; that cities constructed of any other materials should be cheerful, civilised, opulent, artistic, and full of good hotels. I would not have anyone think that Moses was arbitrary in this little matter. He knew that there must be bricks and mortar, but he knew equally well that there were a hundred cheerful ways of concealing them from the public eye. It was with the outward seeming rather than the true inwardness of posterity's towering edifices that the Prophet concerned himself—with those grossly material and mentally griseous communities that pollute the fair face of nature with illimitable superficies of flat and blackened bricks.

I do not propose to load down my argument with invidious comparisons between Londonderry and Los Angeles, between Belfast and Buenos Ayres, between Dublin and Stockholm. Let us, instead, consider the physically, but not spiritually, adjacent city of Cork. It has no natural advantages that Dublin does not enjoy, but it either builds of stone or conceals its bricks under a decorous tegument of plaster. In consequence it is the most cheerful city in Ireland. The voice of the Corkman is the cheeriest thing in the world. It acts on the gloomy Dublin citizen like a barrel-organ on a man with the toothache. Sinn Fein, that gloomy creed, has taken possession of Cork, but it has not succeeded in making Cork gloomy. Nor, for the matter of that, did it make Dublin gloomy. It was Dublin that branded its gloomy seal upon Sinn Fein—the seal of bricks and mortar. All Irish movements have been begotten in Dublin—have been born with the virus of bricks and mortar in their blood. That is why they have always failed. Moses has been one too many for them. To me the whole of the apparently insoluble Irish question turns upon what happened upon the banks of the Red Sea. Get rid of the bricks and mortar. A Dublin of skyey stone, of cloud-capped towers and gorgeous palaces, of long white boulevards and awning-gay squares, and a cadaverless Liffey idling down between marble embankments and the heroic effigies of mayors and councilmen, the fathers of the city's stone age—such a Dublin, shod with sea foam and violet-crowned, like Athens of old, with the Featherbed Mountains, might hold the sceptre of nationhood in an Empire of free nations: she could never bend her haughty and brickless neck to the satraps of London-on-Thames. . . .

It was yesterday that these high thoughts occurred to me. Sitting in a dentist's chair in Merrion street, I watched a dream in stone springing to life, as it were, across the road at the magician's wand-touch of two motionless cranes and a donkeyman, who stood on the edge of his caboose, lost in dreamy expectoration. "Vast monument of human enterprise," I murmured, "of the restless energy of the human atom, that unfathomable factor in the cosmic riddle! What if thou takest half an eternity to build? Thou wilt outlast eternity! Quum fractus illabetur orbis impavidam ferient ruinæ. Already the gloomy mansions of intellectual night that spread their Hanoverian shadows over Merrion square tremble at thy coming. Let you arise another foot or so, and the blackened bricks shall fall asunder, the chimney-pots descend in thunder. The area prison rails will burst, and kitchen-maids, in grease immersed, emerge and in exultant tone hymn the apocalypse of stone. Tier upon topless tier arise new mansions of cyclopean size, stone upon stone——." At this moment I reluctantly came to. The topless towers of the new Ilion vanished, and in its place stood the dentist—a mere dentist—with one of my three remaining monoliths in his forceps and a sponge in the other hand. But no matter! Though it all began, as it has ended, in gas, I had my "whisper in the temple caught," my candle of vision.

CONCERNING MONSTERS.

The week has not wanted for its seven days' wonder. But, because the small concerns of life persistently obscure the great, what the leader writers call an "event of the first importance" has come and gone, disturbing by not so much as a ripple the calm surface of a nation's mass consciousness. While Europe burns with impatience, and Mr. Lloyd George fiddles with policies, there has been enacted in the uncharted swamps of the Congo basin a scene by comparison with which the triumphs of Bolshevism are as the buzzing of flies, the prognostications of Professor Einstein but a whisper in the void. Yet so engrossed are we in the trifles of our circumscribed existences that the stupendous event which I propose to recount passed unnoticed of all the more titillant vehicles of news and emerged to the public notice only in that sober, but not unenterprising, organ of democratic opinion, the Daily Herald. On November the 12th of the present year—a bare ten days ago, in fact—a certain M. Lepage, an engineer engaged upon railway construction in the Belgian Congo, but momentarily occupied with the pleasures of the chase, came unexpectedly upon, and was immediately pursued by, a monster of unusual outline and prodigious dimensions. The creature, which eminent zoologists have pronounced from its description to be clearly of an herbivorous nature, and which apparently "took after" M. Lepage in a moment of idle sport, quickly desisted from the pursuit, whereupon the astonished, but still dauntless, engineer was able to inspect it with some minuteness through his binoculars. Whether the gallant fellow was now in fact—as he had doubtless concluded himself to be in figure—up a tree is not disclosed, but his position, whatever it was, at least enabled him to observe that the "great earth-shaking beast" (now in the act of retiring at a rapid gait—something, as one may suspect, between a glide and a canter—in the direction of its swampy fastnesses) was in the neighbourhood of "twenty-four feet long, with a long, pointed snout adorned with tusk-like horns, and a short horn above the nostrils." The front feet he described as being "like those of a horse, the hind feet cloven." There was a "scaly lump" on the monster's shoulders. Subsequently, it is stated, the creature again appeared and destroyed several native villages, though whether intentionally or in play does not transpire. The courageous villagers thereupon organised a hunt, but were forbidden to prosecute it by the Belgian Government, on the ground that the animal was "probably a relic of antiquity."

THOUGHTS AND THEORIES.

Such then is the simple but thrilling narrative, the substantial accuracy of which I for one would not dream of contesting. Not so the Philistine. All of us, he will insist, have been pursued at one time or another by just such a monster, and not always as the result of sunstroke. I regard such criticism as cheap, not to say unworthy. Or he may point out that the benevolent decision of the Belgian Government to protect the creature's anonymity, so to speak, lacks probability, or that it is most unlikely that the natives, however courageous under normal circumstances, would organise the pursuit of what must have appeared to their simple intelligences to be the terrifying incarnation of some particularly powerful and hostile Ju-ju. These strictures leave me cold. From time immemorial men have believed what appealed to their fancy, not what appealed to their reason. And rightly. Is it not common knowledge that for three guineas a lawyer will prove or disprove anything? What says the poet?—

> A hair perhaps divides the false and true
> And you who try to split it—more fool you!

I like monsters. From childhood up I have kept a warm corner in my heart for sea serpents, jabberwocks, rocs, dragons, and other lusus ferae naturae that through the centuries have contributed to the gaiety of nations. Shall I turn them out in the cold because of what some horsehair-headed judge would call "insufficiency of proof"? Suppose the creature is prehistoric. There is a lizard now in the Dublin Zoo of a species that has come down practically unmodified from the Permian age—a creature compared with which the cretaceous Dinosaur is a child, the prehistoric Rhinocerotoidea babies in arms. If the Sphenodon survives in New Zealand, Brontops or Triceratops may linger on in African swamps. If they do, I, for one, sincerely hope that no more than a fleeting glance of their eerie forms, such as M. Lepage enjoyed, will be vouchsafed in my generation. Expectation is a sparkling vintage, realisation merely the empty bottle. A Triceratops in the Phœnix Park would be as banal as a performing bear.

A HAVEN OF PEACE.

There is nothing in the world so cheerful as new fallen snow, or anything so depressing as that same snow when it is in the act of becoming slush. When the recent thaw was at its sloppiest I made a pilgrimage to the Botanic Gardens at Glasnevin. A strange season, the reader will say, to be visiting a Botanic Garden. ça depend, Flora is a tidy soul. She may not always be looking her best, but no visitor ever found her in curl-papers. So, if you want to see a rose called General Jack Robinson or a carnation named after Lady Hicks-Pifflington, this is no time for you to call. You must wait until the Dog Star rises, and—

> The humid cive his brow, anheling, wipes,
> And dreams of erring by ventiferous ripes.

But if you are of the elect, and can get Sir Frederick Moore to play the benevolent devil and show you all the treasures of the vegetable kingdom in the twinkling of an eye, now is as good a time as any—better, indeed, since, by waiting for the Spring, you may be run over by a cab or eaten by wild Sinn Feiners. It was, in fact, my good fortune on the day in question to meet the guardian spirit of the grove, but I do not propose to enlarge upon the marvels I there beheld. In the first place, I could not do them justice. There was an orchid as lovely as the dawn in Paradise—under a magnifying glass; others that looked like things in Mr. W. B. Yeats's dreams, and another little rascal that snapped its mouth shut when you pretended to be a fly and tickled its lip. And there were strange desert plants that look like stones and never know what it is to be thirsty—"Pussyfoots" of the vegetable world. And there were many other wonderful things, but it was not to see them that I went to Glasnevin. I went because I wanted to get rid of an intellectual fathead, to be relieved of a spiritual "brown taste" brought on by drinking too many newspapers. Slush underfoot is depressing enough, but slush on the brain is a nightmare and the precursor of water on the brain.

Saturated with the well advertised spectacle of nations and classes tottering on the brink of the abyss, likely at any moment to hurtle down to ruin in sequent catastrophes of bloodshed and bankruptcy, I had decided to have at least one more look at the steadfast face of Nature. It would be comforting, I thought, to gaze upon something more stable than oneself, though it were only a plant. How contented the plants are, how willing to leave all the upward striving and the making of worlds fit for super-plants to live in, to the wind and the snow and the friendly sun! The wild rose does not scheme to make her son into a Maréchal Neil, or the daffodil say, "I really can't bow to those primroses. They are vulgaris, you know; not even flore pleno."

It is the curse of man alone that he can never be content to remain as he is and become an accepted part of the scenery. He must always be some projection of himself in embryo. Struggling along his alleged pathway to the stars, which, like himself, consist largely of gaseous matter, he ignores the flowers and trees which are so pathetically anxious to make friends with him and show him how life should be lived. "If only the fellow would sit down and look about him!" they say to one another. Probably they would feel less amiably disposed did they but realise that man would like nothing better than to destroy the lot of them, and put something different—no matter what so long as it was not there before—in their place. Fortunately, his efforts in this direction, though persistent, have been unavailing. Man destroys everything he makes—it is a question whether he is most destructive at his noblest or at his vilest—but he cannot destroy Nature. The prospect continues to please in spite of him. Yet he perseveres, the futile ant, ever building new worlds, never pausing to think that this is the best of all possible worlds if only he would let it alone. There are only two things that really matter in life besides a full belly, and they are Truth and Beauty, and man persistently ignores both. It is not altogether strange, therefore, that, after thousands of years of misdirected effort, he seldom tells the one or exhibits the other.

PERMITS FOR MOTOR CARS.

THE NECESSARY PROCEDURE.

Owing to the number of outrages which have recently taken place in Ireland in the commission of which motor cars were used, His Majesty Government has found it essential to put into force the regulations making it necessary that every owner and driver of a motor car or motor cycle should have a permit.

The procedure necessary for obtaining a permit is as follows:—Throughout Ireland, outside the Dublin Metropolitan Police district, the owner of a motor car or motor cycle should apply to the District Inspector, Royal Irish Constabulary, of the district in which he resides. The District Inspector, in reply, will send him a provisional permit, and also a form of application and undertaking, to be filled up and returned. If the owner proposes to drive the car himself, he must attend personally at the police station of his district, and furnish two unmounted photographs for attachment to the permit and form of undertaking. If he does not propose to drive the car himself, he may send the completed form to the District Inspector by post, without photographs.

Drivers of cars who are not owners should apply in the same way. It should be noted that every driver of a car must attend personally at the police station and supply photographs. Owners of cars kept for hire will be required to keep a record of hirings in the form indicated on their permits.

In the Dublin Metropolitan Police area the same procedure will be followed, except that the application should be made to the Superintendent of the division in which the applicant resides.

Should a permit be refused, or should a car be foun for which no permit has been obtained (whether being used or not used), it may be seized by the police. The police have been instructed to stop motorists on the roads by day and night i norder to carry thi Order into effect, and if any car or cycle is halted or warned by lights to stop, the driver and occupants may incur grave risks by neglecting to obey the signals. Applications for permits should be made forthwith.

PARLIAMENT.

THE HOUSING SCHEME.

STATEMENT BY DR. ADDISON.

A BUILDING SUBSIDY.

IRELAND EXCLUDED.

MUNICIPAL INVESTMENT CAMPAIGN.

On the motion for the adjournment of the House of Commons yesterday,

Dr. Addison, Minister of Health, made his promised statement on housing. He denied that the Government scheme had failed, and declared himself to be in no apologetic humour. (Hear, hear.) He said that it had to be remembered that they were dealing with 1,800 local authorities, and the work in hand required time, resolution, and courage. Continuing, he said that they ought not to be stampeded into asking local authorities to erect dwellings that would be found rotten and unsatisfactory. (Hear, hear.) The Housing Act only became law on July 31. It was true that the actual building of 5,000 odd houses was trivial, but the Department had approved of 24,000 acres of land to be properly laid out, with plans for houses, and there was a further 24,000 acres that had been surveyed by the authorities, most of which he had no doubt would be accepted. They had those 48,000 acres of land, which gave sufficient space for practically the whole half-million houses. Most of the delays that had occurred arose out of the question of cost. Another difficulty that arose was as to the question of transport. He rejoiced that they now had a Ministry of Transport. There was also the difficulty as to the cost of material, which in some cases had gone up 200 and even 300 per cent. The average increase was over 150 per cent.

THE BIGGER DELAY.

Coming to what he called the bigger class of delay, he dealt with the state of the building trade itself. There were, he pointed out, five years of repairs waiting after the war, while, at the same time, the war had depleted the building trade by about 200,000 men. Something like 60 per cent. of the trade was employed on repair work, which was a very profitable form of work, and a further 30 per cent. was engaged on shop and other extension work. Further, there was a considerable amount of extravagant building. (Hear, hear.) The high cost was the first difficulty of the local authorities, coupled with the question of their future position in respect of rent.

A MUNICIPAL INVESTMENT SCHEME.

With regard to the difficulty of the authorities in raising the necessary loans, he hoped to issue in a few days a scheme providing a very attractive form of local municipal investment. A campaign would be started in different centres, and it was hoped to encourage the local authorities by this means to finance themselves. Coming to the practical difficulties of building, he said that there were in the trade two sets of builders, with very little relation to each other. There was, first, what was known as the federated builder, who took on the big contract work, and then there was the small house builder.

A BUILDING SUBSIDY.

He had had conferences with both these classes of builder, with whom agreements had been arrived at. The essential thing was to avail themselves of all the practical assistance possible. Despite the Government's objection to the system of special grants, it had been decided, in the case of the house-builder—the sort of man who built most of the houses before the war—that anyone building a house of an approved type would receive a consideration of not more than £150 per house. The subsidy was limited to twelve months, and was made purely out of regard to the high cost, and other special difficulties. It would be a free grant. He realised all the objections to subsidies, but it was necessary that the full aid of the builders should be invoked, and they were bringing in those who would not build houses otherwise. With regard to the federated builders, it had been arranged that each of them should take their fair share of house-building, whatever other orders might be before them. Types of houses had been approved, and questions of quantities, etc., of most of the types had been worked out.

NO LUXURY BUILDING.

A system had been worked out in a number of districts, including the actual cost of production. There was always an irresistible attraction on the part of some people towards luxury-building. The Government had come to the conclusion that they must take steps to arrest luxury-building in the present crisis. (Cheers.) There would be a Committee to deal with appeals against unreasonable prohibition of buildings, but on no account could he undertake that the prohibition of luxury-building would be by a system of licences. In the event of non-essential building operations, limiting the provision of houses in any area, being proposed, the Ministry would be able to authorise the local authority not to pass the plans. There was one other power which was of special importance. They were not going to allow people to be evicted from their houses so that a cinema theatre could be built. Then, within a limited time, they would regulate the extension of factories. They did not want to stop the proper provision of buildings for the extension of industry and education.

A BUILDING TRADE CONFERENCE.

The Ministry of Labour proposed to call a conference or all engaged in the building trade, when proposals would be put before them by the Prime Minister on behalf of the Government. They must not revert to pre-war methods of building. They must increase the output, and they must get more men into the industry. It was 200,000 short. Out of 1,800 authorities 1,270 had sent in schemes. He made no apology for what had been achieved with the limited powers he had. They had got through the preliminary stages, and it was a record of which he was not at all ashamed. He had no intention of scrapping his scheme. They were confronted with prodigious difficulties, and they would overcome them, not by recrimination, but only by resolution, patience, courage, and good temper.

THE RENTS.

Mr. Lunn asked what was the rule regarding the rents to be charged. That, he said, was a very important matter for local authorities.

Dr. Addison said that the rent to be charged was that which was reasonably obtainable for the class of houses in the district.

Mr. Hayday dwelt on the difficulties in the brickyards.

Colonel Royds said that he believed that houses would be built more cheaply and more quickly by private enterprise.

Sir Donald Maclean said that he had listened to Dr. Addison's statement with a great deal of disappointment. He did not think that he really grappled with the profound difficulties of the problem. The question was the delivery of houses in the immediate future, and the urgency of the question was becoming daily more acute. He saw no prospect of more than 10,000 houses being completed by next June.

Lord Robert Cecil expressed regret at Dr. Addison's reference to Lord Downham. He did not think that the present position could be attributed to him entirely. (Hear, hear.) He complained of the absence of clear details from the Minister's statement.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

Mr. Lloyd George said that he rose to make some appeals, through the House, to municipalities and others who were associated with building operations. The information which the Government had was that shortage of houses was a considerable contributory cause to the sense of unrest and discontent which existed in industrial centres. There was much overcrowding, and he had seen letters of a painful and distressing character. There was nothing more urgent from the point of view of social order and stability than that houses should be built quickly. A Government which could not come and ask to amend its scheme was not fit to govern, especially in the present difficult conditions. They could not order a house and get it by return of post. The present Act had only been in operation three months, and directly the Government discovered, at the beginning of November, that the municipalities could not supply the deficiency, they took further steps to supplement the local authorities' efforts. The efforts of the local authorities were a considerable advance upon anything done by them in the past. The Secretary for Scotland could tell an equally good tale regarding Scotland.

APPEAL TO BUILDERS.

It was clear that even if the municipal authorities took the fullest advantage of all powers and carried out all the schemes there would still be an enormous shortage at the end of another twelve months. Therefore, the Government concluded that they ought to make an appeal to the building industry. Builders feared that if they built houses now value would decrease in a few years. That was a justification for offering a subsidy to bridge over the chasm between the present prices and the permanent future fixed prices of the cost of buildings. The subsidy was not necessarily to be confined to builders. Anybody who was prepared to build houses would have the subsidy, subject, of course, to approval of the houses. It would also be available to workmen's associations.

IRELAND AND THE SUBSIDY.

Sir Edward Carson—Will the subsidy apply to Ireland?

Mr. Lloyd George—I am not in a position to answer that. I understand that there is a totally different system in Ireland. The question is one which is occupying the mind of the Chief Secretary.

Sir Edward Carson—I should be glad to have this matter cleared up, because we do not want differentiation between the two countries.

Mr. Lloyd George—It is not a question merely of building houses, but of trying to improve the houses, and I should be sorry if this were the last word. In order to deal with the emergency it is essential to take this step, but I should be very sorry if we did not follow the excellent example set by many Continental countries, by trying to build an aggregation of houses for workingmen a little further removed from the town.

TWO DIFFICULTIES.

Continuing, Mr. Lloyd George said that there were two difficulties that could not be overcome by legislation, and that was why he rose to appeal for the co-operation of those who could help to overcome them. The first was the question of finance. The subsidy had this advantage, that they were done with it, and cut their loss. If they advanced money at a low rate of interest to thousands of builders all over the country, the trouble would be enormous. If the State itself built houses, just think of the machinery required to be set up to collect rents and repair houses in every village? They would have members getting up in the House asking him why certain houses had not had a coat of paint. He did not believe that the municipalities had exhausted local patriotism. He was certain that if they enlisted local patriotism in raising loans for improved housing accommodation of the working classes in their area they would succeed.

A Labour member asked if the Government would come to the assistance of the local authorities who failed.

Mr. Lloyd George replied that if he said "Yes," nothing would happen. They must be thrown on their own resources. They should get the population to invest. He believed that they would succeed in raising sufficient for building purposes if local money were invested. People would be interested in seeing that there was no extravagance. He would like to see counties, as well as big towns, raise loans in their own areas. If the local authorities continually asked the Exchequer for money, it depreciated the security.

APPEAL TO WORKMEN.

His second appeal was to the workmen. Whatever the scheme, and whatever the finance, they would not get home sunless the workmen co-operated. He had heard of rules regarding restrictions of output which were perfectly appalling. If the employers were in it, he appealed to them also. He appealed to the workmen to assist their un-housed fellow-workmen. If the output were restricted, the houses would cost, not seven hundred, but a thousand pounds. That would be a permanent charge on the working-classes of the country. The second point was—that it took twice as long to build the houses. He appealed to members who had special influence over organised labour, to make a special effort to induce the building trade to relax any regulations and restrictions, so that houses could be built cheaply and quickly. The State could not subsidise regulations which were monstrously unjust, and fatal to the industry of the country.

Mr. Clynes asked whether the right hon. gentleman was aware that the trade unions had passed resolutions asking for an inquiry into these allegations of limitation of output.

Mr. Lloyd George said that he should be glad to know that there was no justification for them. He was not casting any aspersions, but he had heard it from many quarters, and he found it necessary to make that appeal. There was also a shortage of labour in the building trade. If the whole trade put in all their strength, they could not build enough houses. They must get more men, who could learn certain of the operations in a short time. No builders, federated or unfederated, could supply the houses unless they were able to induce the unions to relax their regulations, and allow labour which they had hitherto regarded as unskilled to come in and assist in building operations. That was not an unfair thing to ask. A bill was being prepared, and he hoped that it would be introduced next week. He hoped to have an early opportunity of meeting the representatives of the trade unions and the employers, and to make an appeal to them to make one special effort regardless of restrictions and regulations, just as they did during the war, in order to help their own class out of the present conditions.

Mr. Clement Edwards said he was opposed to the subsidy to private builders.

The House stood adjourned at 7.35.

VEGETABLE PRODUCTS COMMITTEE.

FINAL MEETING OF IRISH BRANCH.

The final meeting of the Irish Branch of the Vegetable Products Committee was held yesterday afternoon at the offices of the Royal Horticultural Society of Ireland, 5 Molesworth street, Dublin—Mr. Francis V. Westby, D.L., presiding.

Mr. E. Knowldin, Assistant Secretary, having read the notice convening the meeting and the minutes of the previous meeting,

Sir Frederick W. Moore, Hon. Secretary, stated that letters of apology had been received from the Marquis of Headfort, Mr. B. H. Barton, D.L.; Mr. M. V. Blacker Douglas, D.L.; Miss Carroll, Mrs. Cooke, Commander J. C. Gaisford St. Lawrence, Mr. J. Hume Dudgeon, Mr. H. P. Goodbody, Sir William Goulding, and Mrs. Westby.

In presenting their final report, which was read by Sir Frederick Moore, the Committee stated that how much the work of the Irish Branch was appreciated was shown by the following letter from the late Admiral Lord Beresford:—

"Sir,—In presenting you with a copy of our last annual report, prepared before the armistice was signed, I wish to congratulate you heartily both in my own name and on behalf of my Committee on the splendid part which you have steadily and quietly performed in winning the war. In this tribute to your devoted and patriotic labours I wish to include everyone who has so generously co-operated with you. It is well known that the least relaxation or inefficiency on the part of our Fleet might have led to a result far different from that for which we are so deeply thankful to-day; but the Fleet moral, the high courage and confidence of its men, upon which so much depended, rested largely upon the maintenance of their health and their unshaken reliance in the faith of those at home. Nothing was more helpful to the men's health or carried more conviction to their anxious minds than your regular messages of devotion and confidence conveyed in the shape of fresh vegetables and fruit. We have been assured repeatedly by the Admiralty and naval authorities, as well as by the men themselves, that the thoughtful gifts collected and despatched by our branches have not only helped in keeping the men of the Fleet in good health, but they comforted, cheered, and consoled them, as they were a continuous reminder that the thoughts of those at home were always with them. We are filled to-day with a thankfulness too profound to give it full expression, and it is tempered with the mournful memory of grievous losses from which hardly one of us is free. But the security of our country is assured, and the world is saved from slavery and barbarism. Do not these results console us in our losses, and are we not proud to feel that those lost to us in this great trial fell in a great and glorious cause? In this triumph our immortal Navy has borne a glorious part, a part that has added a lustre to its imperishable traditions that will never grow dim."

In their message of congratulation to the Fleet, following upon the armistice, the Lords of the Admiralty said:—"The Navy had in time of peace to be ready for war in a sense in which land forces cannot be. Now that peace is again in prospect, it may prove that, even after the troops in the field are enjoying a relief from tension, the Navy must for a time continue its war routine. If so, their lordships are confident that this will be cheerfully accepted as being at once the burden and the privilege of the Empire's first line of defence.

"As you have been associated with the Navy and its well-being so long," the letter concluded, "may I ask you to regard this message as also addressed to you, and that you and all associated with you will generously carry on your good work until the ships of the Fleet return to harbour, having faithfully and triumphantly discharged its great mission, not only for the British race, but for the world's civilisation."

On the motion of Mrs. King, seconded by Mrs. Howe, the report was unanimously adopted.

It was decided to allocate portion of the funds in hands to the Seamen's Institute, Eden quay.

HOUSING IN IRELAND.

GOVERNMENT'S SCHEME CRITICISED.

DEMAND FOR BUILDING SUBSIDY.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD BLAMED.

MR. MACPHERSON'S DEFENCE.

SUBSIDY TO BE CONSIDERED.

During the debate on the Government's Housing Proposals in the House of Commons yesterday,

Major O'Neill said that the position in Ireland was no better than that in England—if anything it was worse. In England there was to be a grant of £150 per house, as a means of bridging over the unexampled conditions which existed, and would probably exist for another two years. He agreed that that would act as a stimulus to house-building. He hoped that the the Chief Secretary would be able to tell them that a similar grant would be applied in Ireland, and that the scheme to create attractive investments for municipalities for the purpose of raising money, which was at present so difficult to secure, was also to be extended to Ireland. The Housing Scheme in Ireland was going badly in many localities. Apart from the housing conditions in the large towns, the matter was just as pressing in the rural areas in Ireland. Yet he (Major O'Neill) knew that the the number of applications lodged with rural district councils within the last few months had been enormous. The conditions in such districts and in the smaller towns was appalling. He was glad to say that the old tumble-down cabins which used to cover the countryside in Ireland were rapidly disappearing. But still the need of proper housing in the rual districts was one of great magnitude. The Government ought to bring pressure on the local authorities to see that they did carry out the powers with which they had been vested under the Acts.

CAPTAIN REDMOND.

Captain Redmond said that from the original Housing Bill which was proposed in the House Ireland was at first excluded. They had been told that the Act in England was not working well. Although 5,000 houses had been constructed since July, and 24,000 acres of land had been acquired in England for building purposes, yet the Act had admittedly broken down. If it had not broken down, there would have been no necessity for the Government to come there that day with supplementary proposals. Passing from the English point of view, he said that what he was anxious to get from the Chief Secretary was this—If the Act had broken down in England, a fortiori, had it not broken down in Ireland? Only on the previous day the Chief Secretary had stated that only two houses had been erected in Ireland. He was anxious to elicit from the Chief Secretary how many schemes had been submitted by local authorities in Ireland. As far as he understood, ninety out of 127 local authorities in Ireland had submitted schemes, which was not a bad proportion. He wished to disabuse the mind of the House of the idea that the municipal authorities had been responsible for the breakdown of the Act, and, therefore, he desired to know how many of these schemes had been accepted, how many approved of, and what had been the criticism passed upon them by the Local Government Board. The scheme was utterly impracticable for small communities in Ireland, whether urban or rural, because of the financial responsibility. The larger corporations had been ready to go on, but in many cases their proposals had been turned down by the Local Government Board, as in the case of Belfast, where the scheme was welcomed with open arms.

THE CASE OF WATERFORD.

Taking his own constituency—Waterford—the Corporation rapidly sent along a scheme to the Local Government Board for the construction of 500 houses. There was need for five times that number. The houses were estimated to cost £600 each—a very large sum, indeed, for a house in Ireland. According to the existing Act, this £600 would have to be acquired by loan, at a rate of at least 6 per cent., which would mean £36 per annum. Add to that, at least £15 for insurance and sinking fund and ground rent, etc., and they would arrive at almost £1 per week for an economic rent. Out of economic rent, say, 6s. was charged by the local authority, and 6s. was far and away in excess—almost double—of what had been charged heretofore, and, according to the Act, 7s. 6d. would be paid by the State, making 13s. 6d., leaving a balance of 6s. 6d. to be found by the municipality for every house constructed. Now 6s. 6d. a week on 500 houses was a considerable sum on a city whose rates were already 18s. 5d. in the £, and it would really be an almost unbearable and intolerable burden. But, even so, so anxious were the custodians of the people in the city for the welfare of the working-classes, that they sent forward their scheme to the Local Government Board, knowing the burden it would mean. But the Local Government Board's reply was that the houses were not good enough; 6s. 6d. on the rates would not be sufficient. They would have to do better; and the scheme was turned down. He was not saying that that city was a typical instance, but he was saying this—where they had got a municipality so desirous of co-operating, and yet being "turned down," would any sane man say that the Act was not unworkable in Ireland? Besides that, there was dissatisfaction throughout the country.

A meeting took place on October 28, between the Housing Committee and a deputation from the Municipal Representatives' Association, at the Custom House in Dublin. He was told that many things were said there, and that shorthand notes were taken. He would be very grateful if the Chief Secretary could supply a report of those proceedings, because they would go a long way to show that the dissatisfaction was well founded. What he really wanted to know was—was Ireland to be left out again, or was Ireland to be given treatment equivalent to what was being given to England? He fully admitted that they could not deal exactly the same with Ireland as with England, because they chose to deal differently by framing a different scheme, and passing a different Act. But, at the same time, this could be done—they could place Ireland in the same position as they were placing England in regard to the present cost of materials, and the present difficulties in regard to building, which had to be got over. The Prime Minister stated that afternoon that his reason for bringing forward these supplementary proposals was to bridge the chasm between the present and the permanent prices in the construction of houses. That existed in Ireland just as much as it did in England. Was anything proposed to bridge over that chasm in Ireland by rendering financial assistance to Ireland, on the lines of the Irish Act, just as it was proposed to render financial assistance to England in accordance with the terms of the English Act?

He would personally suggest that it would be better to change the whole basis of the Government grant under the Irish Act. He would much prefer that the basis of the Government's contribution was not upon the rent collected, but upon the economic rent, on a sliding scale; or if that would not satisfy the Treasury, a substantial grant should be made to the construction of each house in Ireland, just the same in amount, and in the same way, as it was proposed to be made in the case of England. After all, they thought nothing some months ago of spending eight millions a day on the war. They were told—and some believed at one time—that the war was to make this country fit for heroes to live in. The price, both in money and men had been paid, but that would go for nought if we were not willing to spend now more millions—even a hundred millions—on the most urgent problem for bettering the social condition of the people. He would much prefer that it should be done by way of loan, as had been suggested. Why could the Government not come forward again? It might be a large sum of money, but what was that for such a purpose? Let the Government come forward with the money at a low rate of interest, so that the people might eventually become the proprietors of their own houses. It was not a local, but a national, question. Let the Chief Secretary rise out of the groove which he, unfortunately, seemed to have got into in Ireland in the last few months. Let him show that he meant to do something for the people, by getting a substantial grant, and put in the best work for the prosperity of the country.

MR. MOLES.

Mr. Moles said that he took it that the Chief Secretary was in agreement with the general principles laid down by Dr. Addison in his speech. It was denied that the finance of the housing scheme had broken down, but if it had not broken down what was the discussion about? Undoubtedly it had broken down in respect of Ireland. He did not say that that was the fault of the Chief Secretary, but he asserted that it was not the fault of the municipalities and townships that had entered into these schemes. He would take the case of Belfast. In that city they had put forward a scheme, adequate, as they believed, to their local needs, and capable of being run on sound financial lines. They could have gone on successfully and at once with that scheme. But the advisers of the Government insisted on something more grandiose. Under the specification laid down by the Irish Local Government Board, the Belfast Corporation found that, instead of £600 being the cost of a house, the lowest tender was for £900. It was pointed out quite recently by a deputation to the Local Government Board, that if they insisted on a scheme of housing of that kind it would mean a loss on each house of £30, or upon the whole scheme of 5,000 houses of £150,000 per annum. If they had to choose between the two alternatives—that of remaining without houses, as they were, or that of undertaking a scheme that would involve such a costly outlay per annum, that it meant the strangling of every new city, and the arrest of every movement calculated to improve the condition of the working classes—that was a position they could not contemplate with a light heart. To give the English and Scottish housing schemes a subsidy, and to withhold it from Ireland, would be a cruel wrong, and would, in effect, produce disaster in respect of all those schemes. The rates in Waterford were 18s. 5d. in the pound, in Dublin 16s. 11d., and in Cork 19s. 6d. in the pound, and if they were going to improve their building schemes that would mean, in addition, three or four shillings in the pound. That plan was doomed to disaster.

THE CHIEF SECRETARY.

Mr. Macpherson said that he gathered from the debate that the Irish housing scheme was not considered bad in itself, but that its administration was bad. He would point out that it had not been very long in operation. He was astonished at the really genuine progress made under it. Ninety local authorities had actually submitted schemes, which formed a large percentage of the whole, and there were sites totalling 2,024 acres. It was admitted now that nothing was giving more satisfaction than the houses produced under the Irish Labourers Act. Houses in country districts had been built in very large numbers, and, apart from certain localities, there was really no great difficulty in the rural districts, though there were conditions that should not be tolerated in a civilised country. There need not be now, with the powers given, a single rural locality in Ireland with bad houses for the workingman. It could not be said, therefore, that it was due to the Government if there was any failing, so far as they were concerned.

Mr. Moles asked whether the Chief Secretary would dispute the proposition of the Belfast Corporation, that the scheme involved a loss of £30 a house.

Mr. Macpherson replied that he believed his hon. friends would agree that the scheme passed by that House was a good scheme, and the Belfast Corporation unanimously accepted it. The hon. member suggested that they were being hampered in their progressive work. He would consider, with the Local Government Board, whether the regulation that hampered the work of the Corporation could be amended, so that they could go on with their work. He could not help thinking that Captain Redmond had got his information from one or two people in Ireland interested in housing, who had consistently opposed this scheme ever since it became an Act of Parliament.

Captain Redmond said that he got his information from his own observation and from contact with the people primarily concerned in the working of the Act.

Mr. Macpherson, continuing, said that the rates paid in Cork, Waterford, and Dublin had been quoted. In Dublin they were said to be 16s. 11d. in the £, and that it was impossible for those urban localities to continue to build houses until they had some such subsidy as that proposed to be given in England. He saw by a report in the Daily Express of the 19th inst. that, at a meeting of the Rathmines Urban Council, Mr. Carruthers, speaking of the scheme from a financial point of view, said that he had strongly opposed the scheme at first, believing that it might turn out to be an uneconomic investment, but, having gone into the matter with the officials, it had been found that it cost the township nothing when the Government contribution was taken into account, which was an agreeable surprise to him, and should be so to the Council.

Captain Redmond said that Rathmines was not in the city.

Mr. Macpherson, continuing, said that notwithstanding all the controversy which had arisen in regard to the matter in Rathmines and in Belfast, he did say that, if the Irish Housing Act were given a fair chance, it would do well, and should do well. He had been pressed to state what the Government's policy was with regard to the proposals now put forward. The Irish Housing Act was entirely different from the English, and he could not be expected to define straight away his attitude.

Mr. Moles—Will it be considered?

Mr. Macpherson—Most certainly.

Captain Redmond—Will you say when you can give a definite reply?

Mr. Macpherson said that no one recognised more than himself that this was an important matter, but it was perfectly impossible for him to name the hour or the day when he could make a declaration. He would promise to give the case presented to him his most earnest consideration. The Irish Housing Scheme was his own child, and he was certain that it would be, as it was intended to be, a great blessing and benefit to the people.

THE COATI.

The coatis came to the Dublin Zoo from South America. They are about the size of a cat, and are distantly related to the bears through the racoons. The feature which strikes one first is the very great length of the snout, which it can move in every direction with great ease. They are essentially carnivorous, living on small animals and birds. When the present one first came to the Zoo it searched its cage all over, and, finding a spider, at once ate it up. They can be tamed, and make interesting pets. They are firm believers in the motto that "Union is strength," for when hunting for food the troop divides into companies, one of these devoting their energies to the higher branches, the other concentrating their efforts upon the ground. Any animal dropping from the branches is captured below. Their agility in the trees renders them exceedingly difficult to capture, and, in addition, they are good fighters. Their double-edged canine teeth give the hunter cause to remember if the battle is fought at too close quarters.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

MILK SHORTAGE IN COUNTRY TOWNS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—There has been formed in the town of Mullingar a "Workers' Milk Committee." It consists of 400 members of the working classes. Two months ago they advertised in the local Press for the modest supply of 10 gallons of milk daily. Up to this they have only received one verbal quotation to supply at 3s. per gallon: "it paid better to feed calves and pigs." Probably this local association is concerned for about 1,000 souls, old and young. Ten gallons of milk per day was all they asked for; they were prepared to pay 2s. a gallon for it, but it "paid better to feed calves and pigs."

A farm of 240 acres was advertised for sale by auction in the vicinity. The "Workers' Milk Committee" managed to raise £6,000, and were prepared to buy this farm, work it co-operatively, and supply Mullingar with all the milk it required at a reasonable rate. But a grazier came along and bought the farm by private treaty for £8,000 over the heads of the "Workers' Milk Committee." It will be interesting to see how much milk the new purchaser will produce.

I offer no comment on these two bald statements of fact. They need none.—Yours, etc.,

R. A. Anderson.

POSTCARDS AND ARTISTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—There is a perennial complaint that art is not encouraged in Ireland; still artistic postcards of Irish places are almost unknown. The photographs in the exhibition of 1882 were as good as most, and better than many, postcards now sold; yet thirty-seven years have rolled on; the scenery is still there, and the want is still evident. Might I suggest a scheme to supply the want?

Let the various cities and towns, which have a right—and in some cases a duty—to advertise their scenery and advantages, start competitions according to their means, offering prizes in three classes:—(a) for the best painting; (b) for the best pen-and-ink sketch; (c) for the best photograph. All should be suitable for postcards and all of local subjects. If announced soon, the competitions could be in March, and the selections handed over to the producer then could be on sale in May or June, when the competitions for the following year might be announced. In this certain subjects might be suggested that had not been up to the standard in the previous year. The producer might be charged a royalty for the copyright, which would repay the prizes, or the postcards might be purchased by the township and resold at a profit locally.

If such a competition took place annually, good views might be obtained, and the originals might form the nucleus of a local picture gallery. Cities and large towns might ask for oil paintings suitable for posters; etchings and engravings might also be included in competitions. A first prize of, say, £20, with £5 for second, and five consolation prizes of £1 in each class, would probably produce twenty-one good designs for £90, which is not an excessive amount to advertise a good town and to encourage local artists. Prizes need not be awarded if the exhibits are not worthy.

If this scheme be adopted, it may not be necessary hereafter, when buying a postcard of an Irish stone cross, to obtain one with the top coloured to represent a red roof-tile and labelled, "Printed in Germany."—Yours, etc.,

"Nobody."

CLERICAL INCOMES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—In your issue of the 18th inst. there appears an address by the Bishop of Derry on inadequate clerical incomes. In a letter from me, which you published on the 28th October last, I asked some questions about Church of Ireland reform. To these questions I have seen no reply. In your issues of the 27th October and 30th October appear two letters which mention the opposition to amalgamation of parishes and the bitterness against such proposals. But in no appeal for funds have I seen any reply to the plain question: What has been done to adjust the organisation of the Church to the needs, means, and population of the present day?

Since 1869 the Church population has diminished, but the number of bishops, instead of diminishing, has increased. Before asking for increased subscriptions from laymen, whose incomes, in most cases, are diminished, it must be shown that the Church has the will and the power to carry out effective reform in order to make the best possible use of any funds that may be raised. If additional subscriptions are expected, this proof must be produced.—Yours, etc.,

THE IRISH DOMINION LEAGUE.

PROPOSAL FOR SETTLEMENT.

THE QUESTION OF SAFEGUARDS.

At a meeting of the original signatories to the Irish Dominion League's Manifesto, held yesterday, a discussion took place upon the Irish policy of the Government, so far as it had been revealed, and upon the proper attitude of the League thereto. The meeting decided to send the following statement to the Press:—

The political correspondents of the British and Irish Press are unanimous that the announcement promised by the Government at an early date will be to the effect that the Cabinet, accepting the two-nation theory, have decided to set up two separate Parliaments and governments in Ireland, with some kind of Council, mainly nominated by the Castle. While the League will not pass judgment upon the Government's proposals until they are officially announced, it was thought well to let its supporters in the country know that it adheres to the principles already enunciated in its Manifesto. In view, moreover, of the hopelessness of getting, in a Legislature in which three-quarters of the people of Ireland are unrepresented, such consideration of the difference existing between various sections of Irishmen as is likely to compose them, the meeting decided to submit for public discussion a new method of seeking a settlement.

The League, while standing for the unity of Ireland, recognises, as clearly as does the Government, that the crux of a real settlement—that is, one which may, when there has been time for an examination, win the acceptance of a majority in Ireland—is Ulster and the pledges. It does not ask British Ministers to coerce Ulster, however much it may dissent from the interpretation of the pledges given in utter disregard to the rights of all other sections of the Irish people. But it does insist that, by an adaptation to Irish conditions of constitutional devices which have succeeded in the self-governing Dominions, the essential unity of the Irish nation shall be preserved, with ample security to any section of the nation which has peculiar interests, sentiment, fears—or even prejudices—entitling such section to special treatment.

The Government's attempt to impose a settlement without consulting the wishes of the Irish people is being justified on the ground that the Irish Convention failed to agree. The plain truth is that the Convention was prevented from bringing to fruition the earnest desire of four-fifths of its members to meet every legitimate wish of the other fifth by the knowledge of that minority that they could rely on the Government to support them in their refusal to agree to anything. The only way to put the issues before the Convention to the test is to bring together representatives of all sections of the Irish people in open assembly, with a binding guarantee that the whole of Ireland is to have self-government.

The League, therefore, proposes that the Imperial Parliament should acknowledge by legislative act the right of the Kingdom of Ireland to a measure of self-government within the Empire equal to that enjoyed by the Dominions overseas, and that thereafter a popularly elected Constituent Assembly shall be immediately set up to determine the safeguards to be conceded to the people of North-East Ulster. If Ulster would be satisfied with provincial rights, within an Irish Dominion, upon the Canadian or South African model, the League would favour a settlement on such lines. The Imperial Parliament would still have power to decline to give legislative effect to any arrangement made by the Constituent Assembly which did not provide the Ulster and other minorities with every security they could reasonably demand.—Signed on behalf of the Irish Dominion League.

MIDDLE CLASSES UNION.

A DUBLIN BRANCH FORMED.

Last night in the Oak Room of the Mansion House, Dublin, a meeting was held under the Chairmanship of Mr. E. H. Andrews, D.L., for the purpose of forming a branch of the Middle Class Union, which has for its objects mutual understanding between all classes of the community and the securing of an equitable distribution of national taxation, to obtain the removal of unfair burdens on the middle classes, and to enable them to protect their interests from legislative and industrial oppression.

The Chairman said that at the present time it should be admitted that the middle classes were only the buffer between Capital and Labour in the United Kingdom, and there was absolutely no cohesion between the middle classes. They were not represented to any large extent in Parliament, whereas Capital was represented largely in the House of Lords, and Labour was magnificently organised, and very largely represented in the House of Commons. As far as taxation was concerned, the largest portion of the taxes at the present time were paid by the middle classes, and the middle classes were paying more than their just proportion, simply because there was no one to look after their interests. As they were all aware Labour had been able to demand, and successfully demand, an enormous increase in wages. As wages went up so must the cost of living, and the middle classes, those with fixed incomes, would have to pay. At the present time a very strong agitation was being made for the better housing of the working-classes, which he (the Chairman) thought was a most admirabe thing, but he did not see why the middle classes, with limited means, should be taxed out of existence to provide homes for the workingman who hardly knew how to keep the homes they had at present. It was a very serious proposition, and it was up to them all present to have their organisation perfected.

Mr. W. B. Conyngham proposed the following resolution:—

"(a) That a Dublin and Central Ireland Branch of the Middle Classes' Union be this day formed, and that this meeting of taxpayers and law-abiding citizens pledges itself to use every legitimate means to support the Union and its objects, and secure its success. (b) That an Organising Council, composed of 20 members, with power to add to their numbers up to 30, be appointed to give effect to the above resolution."

The resolution was seconded by Mr. Rosenthal, K.C.; supported by Messrs. Russell and Harris, and adopted unanimously.

DUBLIN AND "PROFITEERING."

CORPORATION MEETING FALLS THROUGH.

NO QUORUM TO ADOPT THE ACT.

A special meeting of the Dublin Corporation was summoned for one o'clock yesterday afternoon for the purpose of considering a letter from the President of the Board of Trade stating that it was the intention of the Board to delegate to local committees in Ireland power to investigate, hear, and determine complaints concerning "profiteering" by retailers, and inviting the local authority to appoint such a committee.

The Lord Mayor took the chair, and at 1.20 p.m. the Town Clerk called the roll and announced that a quorum was not present.

The Lord Mayor—Well, gentlemen, there is no quorum.

Mr. P. T. Daly said that he presumed that the resolution standing in his name would stand for the next meeting of the Council?

The Lord Mayor—Certainly.

Mr. Daly—Is there any idea of calling a further meeting, because this is a matter of great public importance? Under this Act the Corporation have power to deal with persons who attempt to "profiteer."

Dr. Sherlock said that he thought that it would be very essential to have a meeting called immediately. From what he had heard through the working of this Act in Kingstown immense benefits had been conferred on the general community. By putting it into operation in Dublin it was obvious it would improve the position of those in the city a great deal more.

The Lord Mayor—We have called a meeting, and you can see what the consequences are.

Dr. Sherlock said that the outcome of the absence of a quorum would be that there would be a sufficient expression of public opinion to compel a responsible attendance of Corporators at the next meeting.

Mr. Daly—And to exclude "profiteers" from the next Corporation.

Dr. Sherlock said that the names of the members attending ought to be published, not for the purpose of getting an advertisement for those who were present, but to draw attention to those who were absent.

The Lord Mayor—I am sure the Press will do so.

The following members attended at roll call or immediately afterwards:—Aldermen Thomas Kelly, M.P.; McCarthy, O'Toole, Dr. McWalter; Councillors Moran, Maher, Dr. Sherlock, Gleeson, Doyle, P. T. Daly, Foley, Brohoon, Chase, M. J. O'Connor.

It was announced that another special meeting would be called for Friday next.

MIDDLE CLASSES UNION.

A DUBLIN BRANCH FORMED.

Last night in the Oak Room of the Mansion House, Dublin, a meeting was held under the Chairmanship of Mr. E. H. Andrews, D.L., for the purpose of forming a branch of the Middle Class Union, which has for its objects mutual understanding between all classes of the community and the securing of an equitable distribution of national taxation, to obtain the removal of unfair burdens on the middle classes, and to enable them to protect their interests from legislative and industrial oppression.

The Chairman said that at the present time it should be admitted that the middle classes were only the buffer between Capital and Labour in the United Kingdom, and there was absolutely no cohesion between the middle classes. They were not represented to any large extent in Parliament, whereas Capital was represented largely in the House of Lords, and Labour was magnificently organised, and very largely represented in the House of Commons. As far as taxation was concerned, the largest portion of the taxes at the present time were paid by the middle classes, and the middle classes were paying more than their just proportion, simply because there was no one to look after their interests. As they were all aware Labour had been able to demand, and successfully demand, an enormous increase in wages. As wages went up so must the cost of living, and the middle classes, those with fixed incomes, would have to pay. At the present time a very strong agitation was being made for the better housing of the working-classes, admirable thing, but he did not see why the middle classes, with limited means, should be taxed out of existence to provide homes for the workingman who hardly knew how to keep the homes they had at present. It was a very serious proposition, and it was up to them all present to have their organisation perfected.

Mr. W. B. Conyngham proposed the following resolution:—

"(a) That a Dublin and Central Ireland Branch of the Middle Classes' Union be this day formed, and that this meeting of taxpayers and law-abiding citizens pledges itself to use every legitimate means to support the Union and its objects, and secure its success. (b) That an Organising Council, composed of 20 members, with power to add to their numbers up to 30, be appointed to give effect to the above resolution."

The resolution was seconded by Mr. Rosenthal, K.C., supported by Messrs. Russell and Harris, and adopted unanimously.

DUBLIN AND "PROFITEERING."

CORPORATION MEETING FALLS THROUGH.

NO QUORUM TO ADOPT THE ACT.

A special meeting of the Dublin Corporation was summoned for one o'clock yesterday afternoon for the purpose of considering a letter from the President of the Board of Trade stating that it was the intention of the Board to delegate to local committees in Ireland power to investigate, hear, and determine complaints concerning "profiteering" by retailers, and inviting the local authority to appoint such a committee.

The Lord Mayor took the chair, and at 1.20 p.m. the Town Clerk called the roll and announced that a quorum was not present.

The Lord Mayor—Well, gentlemen, there is no quorum.

Mr. P. T. Daly said that he presumed that the resolution standing in his name would stand for the next meeting of the Council?

The Lord Mayor—Certainly.

Mr. Daly—Is there any idea of calling a further meeting, because this is a matter of great public importance? Under this Act the Corporation have power to deal with persons who attempt to "profiteer."

Dr. Sherlock said that he thought that it would be very essential to have a meeting called immediately. From what he had heard through the working of this Act in Kingstown immense benefits had been conferred on the general community. By putting it into operation in Dublin it was obvious it would improve the position of those in the city a great deal more.

The Lord Mayor—We have called a meeting, and you can see what the consequences are.

Dr. Sherlock said that the outcome of the absence of a quorum would be that there would be a sufficient expression of public opinion to compel a responsible attendance of Corporators at the next meeting.

Mr. Daly—And to exclude "profiteers" from the next Corporation.

Dr. Sherlock said that the names of the members attending ought to be published, not for the purpose of getting an advertisement for those who were present, but to draw attention to those who were absent.

The Lord Mayor—I am sure the Press will do so.

The following members attended at roll call or immediately afterwards:—Aldermen Thomas Kelly, M.P.; McCarthy, O'Toole, Dr. McWalter; Councillors Moran, Maher, Dr. Sherlock, Gleeson, Doyle, P. T. Daly, Foley, Brohoon, Chase, M. J. O'Connor.

It was announced that another special meeting would be called for Friday next.

As you "do your Live Stock better," you do better with your Stock.

It is a short-sighted and very superficial view which dismisses the great and proved claims of "Clarendo" with the remark, "it costs money." So do most things worth anything.

If there is one thing that "Clarendo" is NOT, that thing is an expensive luxury or fad.

"Clarendo" much more than pays its cost from the very first, because, as the most digestible and successful all-cereal cooked food on the market, it starts from the first day to BUILD your live stock, as other foods cannot.

Wholesale Depot:
3 Burgh Quay,
Dublin.

You save time when you feed with "Clarendo," and time is money to the stock-raiser in a sense that it seldom is.

"Clarendo" has long ceased to be an experiment. It is to-day the well proved result of long experience of food VALUES. It is the outcome of much experiment in blending cereals—scientifically.

It is very bulky and economical and profit-making. "CLARENDO" GIVES NATURE ITS FULL CHANCE. Crude foods don't.

Clarendo is composed solely of cooked and crushed maize, beans, &c., scientifically balanced.

LAW REPORTS.

CLERGYMAN AND LOST WILL.—In the King's Bench Division (Probate) yesterday, before Mr. Justice Kenny, in the goods of Denis Dwyer, deceased, Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald (instructed by Messrs. Collins and Kennedy) applied on behalf of Margaret O'Brien for an order that the Rev. James O'Sullivan, P.P., Aughadown, in the County Cork, be required to attend a sitting of the Court to be examined on oath with regard to a paper writing purporting to be the last will of Denis Dwyer, a farmer, who resided near Skibbereen, and who died on the 1st December, 1913. By the will the testator appointed Daniel O'Brien and John D. Dwyer as his executors, and under the will Margaret O'Brien believed that she was legatee for a substantial amount. The executors had done nothing to prove the will. Mrs. O'Brien knew that about the 1st of August, 1917, the Rev. Father O'Sullivan had the will in his possession. He admitted to her that he had the will in his possession. Her solicitors had written several letters to the rev. gentleman in reference to the production of the will, but he had not replied to any of them. She understood that the rev. gentleman stated that he had lost the will or that he could not find it. Mr. Justice Kenny said that he would not bring the rev. gentleman up to Dublin unless it was absolutely necessary. Mr. Fitzgerald said that it was necessary. If the rev. gentleman had done anything at all, they would not have proceeded against him in this way. Mr. Justice Kenny made the order for the rev. gentleman's attendance on Friday next.

CO. TYRONE WILL CASE.—In the same court, in the matter of the goods of Francis Dailey, deceased, a farmer, late of Ackinduff, Co. Tyrone, who died on the 20th April, 1918, having previously made his will on the 18th April, 1918, an application was made to stay all further proceedings in the action brought by Mrs. Maggie Dailey, the widow; to have the will condemned; the grant of probate which had been lodged to be handed over to the defendants and the executors, Charles M'Bride and Bernard M'Caughey; and the costs of the defendants to be allowed out of the estate. Mr. Maguire (instructed by Mr. Joseph Speers), who made the application on behalf of the defendants, stated that a consent to a settlement had been arranged and signed by the parties. The deceased's assets amounted to £700 or £800, his farm being situated near Aughnacloy. By his will he left his widow £100, four legacies of £50 each to his nephews, two of £10 each to his nieces, and one of £20 to his brother. He left his house and farm to his sister, to whom also he bequeathed the residue of his property. The executors had agreed to pay the widow an additional £100, and she agreed to the stay of the proceedings. Mr. Justice Kenny granted the application, and made the order that was applied for.

INFANT'S WAR LOAN INVESTMENT.—In the King's Bench Division, before Mr. Justice Moore, Mr. Lane Joynt, solicitor, applied on behalf of Joseph Byrne, general labourer, York street, that a sum of £5 should be paid to him out of a fund of £25 which he had invested under the direction of the Court for the benefit of his child James, aged eight years. It appeared that the child had lost a hand as the result of a motor accident in 1918, and that the £25 was compensation paid to him by Messrs. Downes. This was invested in 5 per cent. War Loan. The applicant, who had five young children dependent upon him, earned £2 8/9 a week when he was at work; but he was at present out of employment. The child needed clothing, and the £5 was necessary for that purpose. Mr. Justice Moore said that he was very averse to doing anything that would lessen the small fund which had been invested for the child's benefit, and which it was desirable should be left untouched until the boy came of age. However, if Mr. Lane Joynt got a letter from a clergyman who knew the family, stating that the money would be applied to the child's benefit, he would, under the circumstances, accede to the application. Mr. Lane Joynt undertook that if the money was made payable to him it would be applied to the purchase of clothing for the child. Mr. Justice Moore made the order for the payment of the money to Mr. Lane Joynt, but refused his application for costs in the matter, remarking that the fund was a small one, and that as to the provision of an artificial hand for the child, some charitable institution might come to the rescue.

LOUGHREA LIGHT RAILWAY.—In the King's Bench Division, before Mr. Justice Moore, in the action of the Galway County Council v. the Loughrea and Attymon Light Railway Co., Ltd., Mr. F. J. MacCormack (instructed by L. E. O'Dea), for the plaintiffs, applied for an order for discovery of documents. The plaintiffs claim £2,389 8/8 alleged to have been paid by mistake by the plaintiffs to the defendants. The statement of claim set out that the plaintiffs are the body now charged with the duty of raising and paying to the defendants any moneys payable to them under a guarantee; that the plaintiffs, in paying three separate sums amounting to the amount claimed in the writ, acted under the belief that the defendants had furnished to the arbitrators the accounts of all their receipts during the half-years ended, respectively, on the 30th April, 1917, 31st October, 1917, and 30th April, 1918, and that the arbitrators, before determining and certifying that the respective sums were payable to the defendants under the guarantee, had ascertained the gross receipts of the defendants' undertaking, and that, as this course had not been adopted, these sums were not properly payable. The defendants pleaded that, in the course which had been adopted, the law had been complied with. Mr. Justice Moore made an order directing discovery of all documents delivered by the defendants to the arbitrators, pursuant to the provisions of the 8th Section of the Loughrea and Attymon Light Railway Order, 1889, in respect of the half-years mentioned. He adjourned his decision in reference to an application for other specified particulars, and he refused the application for a third class of particulars.

THE BELFAST SLANDER SUIT.—In the King's Bench Division, Dublin, the Lord Chief Justice and a city special jury yesterday continued the hearing of the slander action, in which James G. Dick, of Belfast, sought damages from Henry A. Stuart, of Coleraine, for slander alleged to have been uttered by the defendant over the telephone in March last. The plaintiff was an employé of an insurance company, and he was an assessor for an insurance company, and he was sent to assess the price of repairing a motor car at Coleraine. He did not approve of the estimate of the defendant, and the defendant, it was alleged, speaking on the telephone to the plaintiff's employer said that the price would have been all right, perhaps, if he had greased Dick's hand, as he had done on a previous occasion. The plaintiff was damaged in repute by this, and he brought the action, which was first tried at the last Assizes in Belfast, when the jury disagreed. The defendant, who is a motor car repairer at Coleraine, denied the slander, and pleaded privilege. Mr. Williamson, K.C.; Mr. T. W. Brown, K.C., and Mr. Lowry (instructed by Mr. T. Erskine Alexander) appeared for the plaintiff. Mr. Serjeant Hanna, Mr. Andrews, K.C., and Mr. MacAfee (instructed by Mr. D. M'Laughlin) appeared for the defendant. The jury answered the questions left to them in favour of the plaintiff, and assessed the damages at £75. Judgment was entered for the plaintiff, and on the application of Mr. Andrews a stay of fourteen days was granted, on the condition that the £75 was lodged within a week.

COMPENSATION FOR DEATH OF A DREDGEMAN.—In the Court of Appeal, Dublin, before the Lord Chancellor, Lord Justice Ronan, and Lord Justice O'Connor, an appeal was heard which was brought by Mrs. Margaret Rossiter from a decision of the Deputy-County Court Judge of Waterford (Mr. Alexander Blood, K.C.), disallowing a claim by her for compensation against the Commissioners of the Port and Harbour of Waterford for the death of her husband in the course of his employment on board a dredger belonging to the Commissioners. It appeared that the deceased was crushed by a crane between the mast and the platform while crossing the deck of the vessel. The Deputy-County Court Judge held that the applicant was not entitled to compensation, as the deceased had incurred an unnecessary risk by crossing where he did, especially as the place of danger was not shown on the evidence to be authorised or recognised by the Commissioners, and as deceased and others had been warned against it. In his report, however, he added that if the applicant was entitled to compensation he would allow her £300. The accident occurred on the 16th June last, and the wages of the deceased were £3 5/- a week. The Court now held that, as the fatal accident occurred in the course of the deceased's employment, the applicant was entitled to compensation, which would be fixed later, in view of the Deputy-County Court Judge's statement that it should be £300 or nothing. A stay of execution for a fortnight was granted. Mr. Sealy, K.C., and Mr. J. Kenny (instructed by Messrs. P. A. Murphy and Co.) appeared for the applicant. Mr. Serjeant Hanna and Mr. Dockrell (instructed by Mr. M. Good) appeared for the Harbour Commissioners.

STANDARD RENT CASE.—In the King's Bench Division, before Mr. Justice Dodd, Mr. Justice Gordon, and Mr. Justice Moore, a decision of interest to town tenants was given on the question of standard rent. An action was brought by Mr. Christopher M. Grimes, solicitor, as executor of the late Mr. John Gore, to recover from Thomas Connell £28 8/- arrears of rent alleged to have been due out of the premises 22 Woodfield terrace, Inchicore, held by the defendant from week to week at the alleged rent of 8/6 a week. Counsel for the defendant moved for an order dismissing the action for want of prosecution. He submitted that the standard rent was 8/-, and not 8/6, it having been, he alleged, wrongfully increased by 6d. a week. He stated that the amount of the arrears of rent at the rate of 8/- a week had been tendered, and subsequently accepted by the plaintiff, who, however, refused to pay the defendant his costs. The Court held that, as the tenant had tendered the standard rent before the action had been brought, and had lodged the amount in court, with the plea of tender, he was entitled to the costs of the action and of the motion, which the plaintiff must pay. Mr. Joseph O'Connor (instructed by Messrs. Gore and Grimes) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. P. G. Kavanagh (instructed by Mr. E. McHugh) appeared for the tenant.

SALE OF SLIGO ESTATE.—Before the Estates Commissioners yesterday, sitting at Upper Merrion street, in the matter of the Ffolliott estate, County Sligo, the question came up for consideration as to whether the lands for sale should be declared a separate estate for the purposes of the Irish Land Act, 1903. Agreements for the sale of the tenanted portion of the estate, containing 2,688 acres, had been entered into in 1908. The vendors had agreed to sell some untenanted lands, comprising 248 acres, to the Land Commission for distribution. The Estates Commissioners had made an offer of £3,880 for the untenanted lands. The vendors were unwilling to accept this sum, as inadequate, and the Estates Commissioners had intimated that they did not consider the estate fit to be regarded as a separate estate unless the untenanted portion was sold. Mr. Leonard, K.C., and Mr. J. E. Walsh (instructed by Messrs. Fenton and Lyons, Sligo), appeared for the vendors. After hearing evidence, the Estates Commissioners increased their offer to £4,250 for the untenanted lands, and it was arranged that the sale should be proceeded with on these terms.

THE SURVEYORS' INSTITUTION.

THE LAND FOR DISCHARGED SOLDIERS BILL.

The Executive Committee of the Irish Branch of the Surveyors' Institution met on Thursday at their offices, 110 Grafton street, Dublin. Mr. Ernest H. Browne, Chairman, presided, and there were also present:—

Mr. Harry Franks, Mr. Fane Vernon, Mr. V. C. Le Fanu, Captain George Hewson, Mr. J. Graves Clayton, Mr. R. E. Maunsell, Mr. Charles Dickinson, Major W. A. Cheeke, Mr. George B. Garvey, Mr. George F. Edgeworth.

The following resolution was proposed by Captain George Hewson, seconded by Major W. A. Cheeke, and unanimously adopted:—

Resolved:

That this Committee note with approval the introduction of the bill for providing land for discharged Irish soldiers, and urge that the Local Government Board should be the body whose duty should be to formulate schemes for carrying the provisions of the Act into effect.

The Committee reviewed the summarised returns sent in by land agent members of the sales of interest in tenants' farms since August, 1914, compiled in provinces and counties, and showing the continuous greatly increased value of land in every part of the country. It was directed that the returns should be epitomised for publication.

The Local Government Board sent the Committee a copy of their circular letter directed to all local authorities in Ireland as to the employment of quantity surveyors in connection with housing schemes, in which they stated that the Board have been in communication with the Quantity Surveyors' Sub-Committee of the Institution in this matter, who have agreed on a scale of fees for the preparation of bills of quantities for each scheme. The Board recommend that each local authority should obtain the services of a quantity surveyor who is in regular practice as such, before tenders are invited for the erection of houses.

The Committee then dealt with correspondence relating to the professional examinations, March, 1920, the Acquisition of Land Act, and income tax farm appeals, when they adjourned.

NATIONAL GALLERY OF IRELAND.

"Two Sisters," a portrait by Thomas Hickey, which is an attractive example of the work of an Irish artist, is now on exhibition in the Sculpture Hall of the National Gallery. Thomas Hickey (1756-1816) was the second son of Noah Hickey, a confectioner of Capel street, Dublin. His elder brother was John Hickey the sculptor. He worked for some years in the Dublin Society schools, where he won several prizes, and he studied afterwards for four or five years in Italy. Hickey returned to Dublin in 1767, and until 1770, he resided in Little Britain street, exhibiting portraits with the Society of Artists in William street. He then went to London where he obtained considerable success, and he exhibited in the Royal Academy in the years 1772-1775, and 1792. Towards the end of the century he visited India. He was, later on, attached to Lord Macartney's mission to China as "portrait-painter," and in 1816 he was again in India. Some of his later work shows the result of these Oriental travels. The date of his death is not known.

Examples of Hickey's work are in the possession of the National Gallery of Ireland, the College of Physicians, the Provost's House, Trinity College, Dublin, and the Mansion House, Dublin. A number of his portraits have been engraved by Collyer, Schiavonetti, Hall, Day, by Hickey himself, and others. A list of his known pictures and further information as to Hickey's life will be found in Mr. Strickland's "Dictionary of Irish Artists," vol. 1.

The picture on exhibition has been lent by Captain R. Langton Douglas, Director of the National Gallery.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW.

A chrysanthemum show in aid of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and of the district nurses attached to the Terenure Branch was opened yesterday afternoon in the conservatory, "Oakland," kindly granted for the purpose by Mr. and Mrs. C. Wisdom Hely. The display of chrysanthemums is exceptionally fine, the wealth of bloom, which is arranged with very striking effect, including some particularly rich tints which the enthusiastic horticulturist appraises highly. Many of the more uncommon varieties have been produced, only after painstaking cultivation, noteworthy examples being "Excelsior," a magnificent bronze, and "Mrs. Walter Herner's," a dark single flower of vigorous development. One very choice pink, with great luxuriance of petals, is the anemone chrysanthemum; and of the canary yellows, "Miss Mary Attock" is one of the finest. There are some exquisite specimens among the double varieties, of which special mention ought to be made, particularly "Romance," a lovely in-curved yellow; "Colsend King," "Hon. Mrs. Auckland," and "Josephince." There is also a fine display of fruit, besides a quantity of rugs and needlework, wrought by the soldiers in King George's Hospital. The show will be continued this afternoon from 2.30 to 6 o'clock, when the band of the Comrades of the Great War will perform a musical programme.

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

BANKS FLAT. RAILS HARDER. TEXTILES, DUNLOPS, AND OILS STRONG.

The marked strength of the Stock markets all the week was well maintained yesterday in spite of quite a considerable amount of profit taking in certain directions, which had no effect on prices owing to the strong nature of the support always available. An adverse feature was the depression shown for some leading Bank shares on the prospects of a strike of officials before the end of the year. War Loan 5 p.c. was a feature of strength. Breweries and Distilleries were still rather sellers. A fresh record was established for Dundalk Steam shares, which were very strong. City Steam Stock was still on offer. Marconi shares had a further interesting improvement, in which the American shares joined. Rails were in better demand. Dunlop Rubber Ord. were excited and strong, and Parent Tyre Def. were in better request. With the exception of Coats Ord. the whole Textile market was exceedingly firm with plenty of buyers about, and the same remark applies to leading Oil shares, which were again higher.

The demand for Government Funds was generally keen. Consols remain at 51 bid. War Loan 5 p.c. rose ⅜ to 91⅞, and Irish Lands closed ¼ to ⅜ higher. India 3 p.c. fell ¼ to 51⅞, but Dublin Corporation Stock rose ½ to 72½.

Banks were sellers, the feature being a fall of 8 to 212 sellers for Bank of Ireland Stock. Nationals fell ¼ to 19, and Hibernians at 6 were steady.

The tone of Breweries and Distilleries was easy. Dublin Distillers Pref. fell 1/16 to 5 1/16, and Guinness Pref. 1/16 to 10⅝, while the Ord. repeated 35.

Dealing in Steam securities was again confined to Dundalks, which rose 1 to 22.

Marconis were strong. The Ord. rose ¼ to 6 1/16, the Pref. ⅛ to 5⅝, and Americans 4½d. to 33s. 3d.-33s.

Home Rails were harder for leaders. Great Northern rose ½ to 83½, and Great Southern ½ to 69; but a broken lot of Wicklow "B" Debs. realised 57, or 5½ under last business done level.

Tramways were almost neglected. Dublin United Pref. repeated 10 1/16.

Dunlop issues were good generally, with Dunlop Rubber Ord. very briskly dealt in, and closed 1/16 higher at 10⅜ up to 10½, the closing figure. Parent Tyre Def. recovered 9d. to 64s., and the Pref. repeated 14s. 9d.

In Drapery issues, Henry Street Warehouse rose 3d. to 20s. 6d.

Textiles were very good in tone and tendency. Coats Ord., however, proved an exception, and fell 1/16 to 8 1/16, while the Pref. repeated 11 1/16. Calicos rose 3d. to 25s. 3d., Cottons 1s. 6d. to 90s. 6d., and Spinners 2s. to 82s. 6d. Lever Brothers issues were firm. Goulding Pref. show no change.

In Trading, etc., Burke issues remain a dull market.

As regards other business done, Oils were buoyant. Burmah rose ⅜ to 18⅜, Kern River 3d. to 36s. 3d., Mexican Eagles 1/16 to 12 1/16, ⅛, ¼, and Shells ¼ to 10 1/16, ⅛. Imperial Tobacco improved 6d. to 67s., and United Steel Ord. 9d. to 21s.-21s. 3d. Cunard Steamship Shares marked 75s., and Commercial Union Assurance 36½. Baldwin Pref., fully paid, were bid for at a slight premium.

GOOD STOCK MARKETS.

WAR LOANS RECEDE AFTER A BUOYANT OPENING.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Stock markets closed the week in good style, the speculative departments claiming the honours of the day. Government Stocks made a brave start, and scored some sharp improvements in the early dealings, but they were unable to maintain the pace, and closed rather heavy. In regard to Victory Bonds, it may be noted that there is a special demand for small denominations, which command sometimes ½ more than the larger Bonds. Oil Shares once again were the dominating section of the House, with Mexican Eagles still seeking higher records, while De Beers and several Mining Shares displayed conspicuous strength (especially for a Friday), and many of the Industrial favourites had useful support. Home Rails had a more virile appearance, and in the Foreign list Argentines made further progress, despite some profit-taking and rumours of frost in the wheat area, such rumours being seasonable now. United Havanas receded a little under realisations after the recent sharp rise, but finished firm, and Leopoldinas again advanced, aided by exchange rates. Foreign Bonds had a firmer tone, a further welcome advance being recorded by French Loans, but Russians remained dull.

LONDON STOCKS CONFIDENT.

GOOD FEATURES NUMEROUS.

Week-end influences restricted business on the Stock Exchange. A confident tone still predominated, however, and, while irregularity became apparent here and there on adjustments, specialities often worked forward, good features being fairly numerous. Investment dealings were rather checked by the firmness of money. Among the speculative groups, Oils finished strong, after some irregularity, and other good spots were Argentine Rails and Diamond Shares, both of which established further substantial advances. The gilt-edged section was quiet, without feature. War Fives were unchanged on balance at 91⅞, after being higher. The other War Loans and Consols were about the same. Miscellaneous gilt-edged securities were steady, without much change. Indian Government issues were fairly supported. There was not much doing to test values among Colonial Loans, but prices were often hard, and Bank of England Stock held firm around 193½.

Changes—Rise: 2¼ p.c. Irish Land Act Stock, ⅛ to 55. Fall: Victory Bonds, ¼ to 80½.

FOREIGN BONDS QUIET.—In the Foreign market quotations, as a rule, were disposed to rest after their recent improvement in several directions. For this the American rejection of the Peace Treaty was held responsible in some quarters. French Fives held at 63½, however, and the Fours held firm. In the Far Eastern section, Japanese Bonds were hardly so good, the 4½ p.c. settling back to 99. Chinese issues, however, were still firm, and Egyptian Loans were impervious to the news of rioting both in Cairo and Alexandria. Among South Americans there was some renewed demand for Peruvians, but an advance was followed by a reaction, and quotations left off unchanged. Argentine and Brazilian issues met investment support, and rather favoured holders.

HOME RAILS CHEERFUL.—In the Home Railway market, despite occasional irregularity, the net tendency was a forward one, and underlying conditions were cheerful and confident.

Changes—Rise: Chatham, ¼ to 10; Great Eastern, ½ to 34½; Great Northern Def., ½ to 35; Great Western, ½ to 84; London and South-Western Def., 1 to 25½; Metropolitan, 1 to 23; Midland Def., ½ to 53; North-Eastern Consols, ½ to 91½. Falls: Great Northern Pref., ½ to 52½; Underground, ⅛ to 2⅛.

CANADIAN, AMERICAN, AND FOREIGN RAILS.—Canadian Pacifics were up to 180 on adjustment to the New York parity, but Grand Trunks were slow and uninteresting, without change. Mexican Rails did not throw off their heaviness. Among Argentine Rails advances of ½ to 1½ were again fairly numerous, and the steady demand is resulting in a distinct shortage of several of the leading Stocks. Leopoldinas were a strong spot among Brazilian Rails, rising 1½ to 44. United of the Havana held very firm. American Rails were strong.

Changes—Rise: Chesapeake, 4½ to 72; Denver Common, 1 to 10; do. Pref., 1 to 20; Missouri, ½ to 14½; Southern Common, 1½ to 31; Canadian Pacific, 1 to 180; B.A. Great Southern, 1 to 81; B.A. Pacific, ½ to 68½; Central Argentine, 1 to 65½; Central Uruguay, 1 to 78. Fall: Bahia Blanca, Debs., ½ to 63½.

INDUSTRIALS GENERALLY MAKE NARROW ADVANCES.

CEMENTS STRONG ON GOVERNMENT'S BIG BUILDING PROPOSALS.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Week end influences caused some further slackening of activity in the Miscellaneous and Industrial market yesterday, and general conditions showed a disposition to develop irregularity at times as the result of adjustments. Underlying conditions, however, were confident and even robust. While public support was sufficient to carry many specialities on the up grade advances on the whole were of narrower extent. Textiles enjoyed a less vigorous lead from Manchester and were irregular, though quotations showed resistance on declines. There was further buying of insurance shares. Iron and Steel shares were spotty, and Caterers were not very sure of themselves, though purchases and sales about balanced in this latter group. Dunlop Rubbers continued on the up grade. There was strong buying of cement issues on the Government's big building proposals. The Wireless group did not loose its forward tendency, though this was less pronounced. Marconi Ordinary held firm around 6 but the Pref. at 6 was 1/16 higher, and the American shares gained 6d. at 32s. 6d. There was a fair support for Land shares and Niger Old shares were prominent, with a jump of 2s. to 77s. 6d. Pekin Syndicate at 34s. were 6d. higher. Dunlops were well supported again, and advanced 1/16 to 10 9/16. Motors were firm, without much change. Cubbitts at 20s. 6d. added 6d. There was a rally of 6d. to 17s. 6d. in National Steam Cars. Associated Cements were a strong feature, closing 1s. 9d. better at 24s. 3d. British Portlands at 31s. were also higher. British and Argentine Meat was lifted up 9d. to 25s. 3d. There was strong buying of Welsbach Ord from well informed quarters, and the quotation left off 1/16 higher at 2 1/16. Among Textiles Coats were offered back ⅛ to 8 on the reported hostile demonstrations at the Glasgow meeting. Courtaulds see-awed, but on balance held around 11 1/16. Fine Cotton Spinners remained a firm spot and left off 1/16 higher at 4⅛. Hoyles fell back 1/16 to 3 1/16. Sewing Cottons did not move.

GENERAL RISE IN MINES.

BUSINESS IN KAFFIRS BROADENS. SENSATIONAL JUMP IN DE BEERS.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

The speculative departments continued to display remarkable strength and vitality, and, as regards Mining Shares, quotations again tended steadily upwards. Dealings, which were continued for some time in the street, were on a gradually expanding scale, and were unchecked by the approach of the week-end. There was still no great rush of public orders, and there was no suggestion of a boom, but the numerous substantial improvements recorded cannot be ascribed solely to professional operations. The Cape was a buyer of its favourites in the Kaffir department, and shrewd investors, who realise the importance to the producers of the big premium obtainable upon gold, were quietly picking up many of the good-class shares, while several of the lower-priced descriptions were being again nibbled at. The leading Finance Shares, such as Central Mining, Anglo-American Corporation, "Johnnies," Rand Mines, and Union Corporation, were well to the front with big gains to their credit; but Goldfields were easier on some disappointment that the dividend showed no improvement upon that for the previous year. Far Easterns were strong under the lead of Rand Selection, which were again largely bought on the recent acquisition of the additional township adjoining Springs. Geduld were in great favour, as were also Brakpan and Modder B. The new State Areas, it is rumoured, will probably be introduced early next week. City Deep and Van Ryn Deep led a fairly general advance in the shares of producers. Although Chartered were inclined to hang fire, and Tanganyikas were still dull, the Rhodesian section showed considerable life, and several counters moved up. The most sensational event of the day was the rise of £2 in De Beers to the record price of 32¼. It was said that the Shares are to be introduced to New York on Monday next, but this is probably premature. Jagers were better, and other Diamonds kept steady. Despite the excitement in surrounding departments, Tin Shares managed to make a very good showing, with Ropps and one or two others in request. The West African Gold Shares were also harder, while Barriers had a better appearance than for some time past. The demand was said to be due, not only to the rise in silver to the record price of 73½d. per oz., but to the possibility of an early settlement of the Labour troubles on the field. Elsewhere Burmas receded the turn on profit-taking, but Santa Gertrudis and Camp Bird were strong on the extraordinary rise in silver.

BIG ADVANCE IN EAGLES THE CHIEF FEATURE AMONG OILS.

MANY STRONG SPOTS.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

The outstanding feature of the Oil Share market yesterday was the continued strength and activity of Mexican Eagles. Following upon the preceding day's advance, the shares opened strong, and, in response to active bidding, the price went ahead rapidly, rising to 13 1/16 buyers, although the quotation slipped back in the street to 13, at which a substantial advance was recorded, the Prefs. moving up in sympathy. Other leading shares again received a large amount of attention, Shells registering a further appreciable gain, and Burmahs, after an early improvement, finished at the overnight's level. Anglo-American continued to be dealt in freely, and again moved up. Several other strong spots developed, among them being English Oilfields, which rose smartly on rumours of further development of an interesting character, while Uroz were again in persistent demand at a further appreciable advance. A big business was done in Scottish-American Oils, which from the overnight's level of 6d. prem. were bid up to 3s. prem., finishing slightly below the latter price in the street. Anglo-Persian Prefs. slipped back on the proposed new issue, and Kern Rivers and Lobitos also closed lower. Trinidad and Russian issues were without special interest.

RUBBER SHARE MARKET BUOYANT.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The price of rubber was unchanged at 2s. 4½d. per lb. As not infrequently happens on a Friday, the volume of business in the Share market fell off a little. The tone, however, kept firm, and might, indeed, be called buoyant, with price movements practically all in the upward direction. Rubber Trust hardened further to 43s., and Anglo-Dutch gained 1s. 6d. at 52s. 9d. Bah Lias were up ¼ at 56s., and Bujong showed a similar rise at 47s. THE MONEY MARKET.

SILVER STILL SOARING.

Bank Rate (changed Nov. 6, 1919).......... 6 p.c.

About a quarter of a million was disbursed in dividends yesterday. There was again an urgent demand for loans in Lombard street, but, while the rate for call money ranged from 4½ to as high as 5 p.c. for new money, the market got through the day without making fresh application to the Bank of England. Weekly fixtures were arranged at 4¾ to 5 p.c. There was not a great deal doing in discounts, but, considering the temporary stringency of money, rates were not unduly firm. The supply of paper was only moderate. Two months' drafts were firm at 5⅝ to 6 p.c., but three months' were taken at 5⅝ p.c. The full six months' rate remained at 6 p.c.

Silver jumped 2½d. for spot metal to 73½d., and forward bars at 71½d. were also 2½d. per oz. up. The Eastern demand on a market bare of stocks accounted for the continued advance.

The following foreign exchange rates were current:—New York cables, 4.04½ to 4.06; Paris, 38.95 to 39.20; Amsterdam, 10.77 to 10.79; Italy, 49.00 to 49.50; Madrid, 20.25 to 20.40; Christiania, 18.55 to 18.60; Stockholm, 17.80 to 18.00; Finland, 118 to 122; Rio bills, 16⅛d.; B.A. transfers, 57⅛d. to 58⅛d.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The biggest development in connection with the purchase of cotton mills in Lancashire took place yesterday with the fusion of Horrockses Crewdson, Ltd., Preston, with Amalgamated Cotton Mills, Ltd. Horrockses Crewdson are the biggest independent concern in Lancashire, with 320,000 spindles and 8,300 looms, whilst the Amalgamated Cotton Mills was the first concern to buy up spinning mills throughout Lancashire. It now represents over a million spindles and a considerable number of looms. Over £2,000,000 is involved in the latest transaction, and Sir Frank Hollins, Chairman of Horrockses, will be Chairman of the new amalgamation.

With Mexican Eagles standing at practically the highest point which they have ever touched, and with most of the other popular shares in the Oil list exhibiting pronounced strength, it may be said that the chief speculative market has thrown off the influence of the check imposed upon its buoyancy by the recent money flurry. The news from the Mexican Eagle properties is good enough to encourage buyers to pay what appears to be a somewhat fancy figure, but in the background of the bullishness there stands the expectation of a coming issue of new shares by the company at par, which would afford a fine bonus to existing shareholders.

Gossip is again active with the idea that the Shell Company may have something in the shape of a bonus to offer its proprietors before long, although there seems to be no special ground for this rumour other than the knowledge of the huge profits which oil companies are making. Mexican Eagles and Shells lead the whole of the Oil list, and upon their movements hang the rest of the market.

Since the announcements of the increased dividend by the United Railways of Havana and Regla Warehouses, to give it its full title, a considerable appreciation has taken place in the price of the Ordinary Stock. The lowest quotation this year was 77½, and quite lately the price has been at about 87. The spurt of the last few days has raised it to 98. Various rumours have circulated to account for this movement, but probably one need seek for no other explanation than the fact that the company has been doing well, and from all that can be gathered is likely to do better in the future. That view is confirmed by the statement contained in the report just issued. The past year's operations have been affected by many adverse circumstances, and the result of the working of the railways is a balance of £1,019,174, as compared with £1,251,797 for the previous twelve months. The ratio of expenses to receipts increased from 58.99 to 68 per cent. The earnings have been satisfactory, but the increased cost of labour, coal, and materials has more than absorbed the increase of £133,000 in receipts. Net revenue, on the other hand, has benefited by the reduction in the amount to be reserved to meet inland revenue charges.

The realised profit of the Consolidated Gold Fields of South Africa last year, largely derived from dividends, has advanced from £412,539 to £544,107, presumably in consequence of improved revenue from the Far Eastern Rand Oil and American Investments. Continued depreciation, however, of certain investments prevents shareholders from reaping immediate benefit from this advance, although this depreciation is only one-half what it was a year ago, when, together with provision for contingencies, some £705,000 had to be dealt with, the procedure being to utilise the reserve fund, and also £105,000 of the year's profits. The dividend is accordingly merely maintained at 7½ per cent. tax free, while the carry-forward has been raised by £40,700. There is no general reserve fund in existence now, but there is an inner reserve on investments, which show on current market quotations "a further large unrealised profit."

We have now reached the five-shilling dollar. The pre-war normal value, when there was a real gold standard in this country, was about 4.8. Business was reported to have been transacted in New York late last night at less than four dollars to the £1. This means that on all our purchases in the United States the loss on exchange increases the cost by 21½ per cent. It is reported that the acute weakness of the exchange is due to large purchases of raw material, particularly cotton. These, of course, are more satisfactory than purchases of luxuries or of manufactures that we ought to be producing in this country. Sooner or later the raw materials will be manufactured into saleable articles, part of which it is hoped will go to swell our export trade. But the loss on exchange greatly increases manufacturers' costs.

It is announced that the Alliance Assurance Company has offered to take over the entire interests of the Colonial and Foreign Banks Guarantee Corporation. Accordingly, sanction is to be obtained in Parliament for the proposed transfer and the winding-up of the Corporation. This undertaking was established in 1866, and incorporated in 1899. There is no share capital, while the position of the Corporation is quite satisfactory as regards reserves and current business. It is considered that the security will be substantially improved with the support of the resources of one of the strongest insurance offices in the country. It is expected, too, that after provision is made for payments mentioned in the bill to be submitted to Parliament, the surplus will produce a very considerable sum, which will be available for distribution amongst the members of the Corporation.

A couple of days ago a Dublin operator offered £18 a-piece for 20 Deferred Shares of 1/- each in the East African Lands and Development Company. The "asked" price was £25! This surely takes the cake for a record premium. The last business done was £18.

COMING PROSPECTUSES.

PRESERVE MANUFACTURERS, LIMITED.—The company has been formed to acquire as a going concern, as from October 1st, 1919, from the vendors, Carr, White, and Co., Ltd., the business of that company, which has an established reputation as manufacturers of high-grade jams, marmalade, jellies, and preserved fruit. The works and property are exceptionally favourably situated, twelve miles from Carlisle, with a frontage extending from Wigton Station for more than half a mile on the main line of the Maryport and Carlisle Railway, and are in direct connection with Maryport, which has excellent docking and loading facilities for vessels of 5,000 tons' carrying capacity. The works are within easy reach of the important fruit-growing areas of Scotland and England, midway between Liverpool and the Clyde, where the company's sugar imports are landed, and where the sites of the principal sugar refineries in the country are situated, and are conveniently accessible to the districts to which the greater portion of the company's products are supplied.

ABDULLA AND CO., LTD.—The prospectus of Abdulla and Co., Ltd., will be issued on Monday. This company acquires the business of Abdulla and Co., Ltd., established in 1902, high-class cigarette and tobacco manufacturers, importers, and exporters. The old company, it is stated, holds stocks of the choicest growths of genuine Macedonian tobacco (known as Turkish tobacco) and the highest grades of Virginian tobacco amply sufficient to meet its growing trade. The share capital to be issued is £550,000, and the London County, Westminster, and Parr's Bank, as bankers of the company, will receive applications for 250,000 8 per cent. Cumulative Preference Shares of £1 each at par. The prospectus will show that the certified profits of the old company, without taking into account the benefit from the new capital, will, after deducting excess profits duty, be sufficient to provide for the dividend on these Preference Shares nearly three times over.

TO SELL BY AUCTION AT OUR LISBURN MART,
On TUESDAY, 2nd DECEMBER, 1919,
AT ONE O'CLOCK, AS FOLLOWS:—

(1) THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY WITH THE RESIDENCE THEREON KNOWN AS "KILLOWEN," and comprising 19a. 0r. 39p., Statute, or thereabouts, in Townland of Clogher. Held in fee-simple, subject to the payment of an annuity of £15 18s. 6d. to the Land Commission.

(2) THOSE VALUABLE LANDS ADJOINING No. 1, and known as "DUNCAN'S LANDS," containing 27a. 1r. 0p., Statute, or thereabouts. Held in fee-simple, subject to an annuity of £25 4s. to the Land Commission.

(3) THAT VALUABLE SMALL FARM ADJOINING LOT 1 known as "BANNISTER'S FARM," containing 5a. 0r. 7p., Statute, or thereabouts. Held in fee-simple, subject to annuity of £3 7s. 10d. to the Land Commission. There is a very comfortable Dwellinghouse on this Farm.

These three Lots, making an aggregate of 51a. 2r. 6p., will be sold in One Lot, with the Valuable Residence and Out-offices.

The Residence, which is modern and up-to-date in every way, is most substantially built and in beautiful decorative repair. It is approached from the County road by two splendid gate lodges, both of which are well maintained. The avenue leading to the House is an exceptionally nice one, and the fine lawn has a very picturesque appearance, with its splendid old oak, beech, and chestnut trees. The Residence contains large tiled hall, drawing and dining rooms, morning room, library, smoke room, 10 bedrooms, 2 bathrooms (h. and c.), 3 w.c.'s, hot press, kitchen, scullery, pantries, larder, dairy, laundry, large servants' hall and servants' apartments, and a very fine wine cellar.

There is an inner yard at the rear of the Residence, containing two ranges of offices, comprising stable for 3 horses, 2 loose boxes, straw and hay house, harness room, wash house, and a large motor garage.

In the outer yard there are also two large ranges of offices, consisting of byre for 8 cows, pony stable, cattle houses, potato houses, piggeries, boiling and feeding houses, calf house, and implement shed. There are also two large enclosed hay sheds, and an excellent range of fowl houses, with a good run enclosed by netting wire. Convenient to the stack yard is the threshing machine, and there is also a machine for pumping the water to the residence.

(4) SMALL HOLDING IN TOWNLAND OF AGHNAHOUGH, containing 4a. 2r. 0p., Statute, or thereabouts, held in fee-simple, subject to annuity of £3 0s. 8d. (3rd decade) to the Land Commission.

(5) SMALL HOLDING adjoining Lot 4, containing 4a. 2r. 0p., Statute, or thereabouts, held in fee-simple, subject to annuity of £3 0s. 8d. (3rd decade) to the Land Commission.

These two Lots will be sold together as one Lot. There are two splendid Cottage Residences on these Lands, and a fine little Lecture Hall, with sheeted ceiling, which could be easily converted into a comfortable Dwellinghouse. There are also 3 large sheds for cattle. All the Lands are of first-class quality, well watered, fenced, and drained; they are under usual rotation of crops, and being literally full of manures they produce very heavy crops. There is an excellent fruit, flower, and vegetable garden, with 3 very fine glass houses, one containing a profitable vinery, another being a tomato house, and the other a plant house. There is about an acre of orchard in full bearing.

This is not only one of the finest Residential Properties, but is also one of the most valuable ever placed in the market in the North of Ireland. It is situate about a mile from the town of Lisburn, on the main road leading to Antrim, in the most select district of Lisburn. There is a very large frontage to the Antrim road and a similar frontage to the Aghalisline road, and taking into account that the suburbs of Lisburn practically extend to the boundaries of the Estate, there is a great potential value attached to the property for building purposes.

CLEAR POSSESSION WILL BE GIVEN ON COMPLETION.

Cards to View from Auctioneers. For Title, etc., apply W. G. MAGINESS, Solicitor, Lisburn.

VERY VALUABLE AND MOST CONVENIENT
COUNTRY RESIDENCE AND LANDS.

WE ARE INSTRUCTED BY MRS. STEWART (WHO IS LEAVING LISBURN)
TO SELL BY AUCTION AT OUR LISBURN MART,
ON TUESDAY, 2ND DECEMBER, 1919,
AT ONE O'CLOCK, AS FOLLOWS:—

(1) THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY WITH THE RESIDENCE THEREON KNOWN AS "KILLOWEN," and comprising 19a. 0r. 39p., Statute, or thereabouts, in Townland of Clogher. Held in fee-simple, subject to the payment of an annuity of £13 18s. 6d. to the Land Commission.

(2) THOSE VALUABLE LANDS ADJOINING No. 1, and known as "DUNCAN'S LANDS," containing 27a. 1r. 0p., Statute, or thereabouts. Held in fee-simple, subject to an annuity of £25 4s. to the Land Commission.

(3) THAT VALUABLE SMALL FARM ADJOINING LOT 1 known as "BANNISTER'S FARM," containing 5a. 0r. 7p., Statute, or thereabouts. Held in fee-simple, subject to annuity of £3 7s. 10d. to the Land Commission. There is a very comfortable Dwellinghouse on this Farm.

These three Lots, making an aggregate of 51a. 2r. 6p., will be sold in One Lot, with the Valuable Residence and Out-offices.

The Residence, which is modern and up-to-date in every way, is most substantially built and in beautiful decorative repair. It is approached from the County road by two splendid gate lodges, both of which are well maintained. The avenue leading to the House is an exceptionally nice one, and the fine lawn has a very picturesque appearance, with its splendid old oak, beech, and chestnut trees. The Residence contains large tiled hall, drawing and dining rooms, morning room, library, smoke room, 10 bedrooms, 2 bathrooms (h. and c.), 3 w.c.'s, hot press, kitchen, scullery, pantries, larder, dairy, laundry, large servants' hall and servants' apartments, and a very fine wine cellar.

There is an inner yard at the rear of the Residence, containing two ranges of offices, comprising stable for 3 horses, 2 loose boxes, straw and hay house, harness room, wash house, and a large motor garage.

In the outer yard there are also two large ranges of offices, consisting of byre for 8 cows, pony stable, cattle houses, potato houses, piggeries, boiling and feeding houses, calf house, and implement shed. There are also two large enclosed hay sheds, and an excellent range of fowl houses, with a good run enclosed by netting wire. Convenient to the stack yard is the threshing machine, and there is also a machine for pumping the water to the residence.

(4) SMALL HOLDING IN TOWNLAND OF AGHNAHOUGH, containing 4a. 2r. 0p., Statute, or thereabouts, held in fee-simple, subject to annuity of £3 0s. 8d. (3rd decade) to the Land Commission.

(5) SMALL HOLDING adjoining Lot 4, containing 4a. 2r. 0p., Statute, or thereabouts, held in fee-simple, subject to annuity of £3 0s. 8d. (3rd decade) to the Land Commission.

These two Lots will be sold together as one Lot. There are two splendid Cottage Residences on these Lands, and a fine little Lecture Hall, with sheeted ceiling, which could be easily converted into a comfortable Dwellinghouse. There are also 3 large sheds for cattle. All the Lands are of first-class quality, well watered, fenced, and drained; they are under usual rotation of crops, and being literally full of manure they produce very heavy crops. There is an excellent fruit, flower, and vegetable garden, with 3 very fine glass houses, one containing a profitable vinery, another being a tomato house, and the other a plant house. There is about an acre of orchard in full bearing.

This is not only one of the finest Residential Properties, but is also one of the most valuable ever placed in the market in the North of Ireland. It is situate about a mile from the town of Lisburn, on the main road leading to Antrim, in the most select district of Lisburn. There is a very large frontage to the Antrim road and a similar frontage to the Aghalislone road, and taking into account that the suburbs of Lisburn practically extend to the boundaries of the Estate, there is a great potential value attached to the property for building purposes.

CLEAR POSSESSION WILL BE GIVEN ON COMPLETION.

Cards to View from Auctioneers. For Title, etc., apply W. G. MAGINESS, Solicitor, Lisburn.
